Democrats Hold Sizable Majority in Congress; Last of Invaders Hurlled Back, Greece Claims

Greeks Report 18-Mile Thrust Into Albania

Poorly-Clad Prisoners Arrive; Salonika De- fiantly Digs In.

By The United Press.
SALONIKA, Greece, Nov. 6.—Greek forces driving into Albania have gone 18 miles into enemy territory and have reached Koritza, Italian invasion base, Greek government quarters claimed to-night.

The same quarters asserted that after the Greek army's counter-attack along the whole front, not one Italian soldier, with the exception of prisoners, remained on Greek soil.

Italian Soldiers Deceived.
Many of the prisoners were said to be Askaris from Africa.

(Bus caravans of captured Italians, who appeared ill-clad for fighting in the snow-blanketed mountains, were pouring into Salonika, the Associated Press reported. Greeks quoted them as saying their officers had told them: "Greece will not fight; we will just walk in.")

While feverishly digging in in expectation of new Italian air attacks, the population of Salonika today began talking not only of giving the Italians blow for blow, but of pushing them back through Albania "into the Adriatic."

"Prisoners or Corpses."
Greek border authorities told a United Press correspondent:

"Please tell your people that this country is not Abyssinia (Ethiopia). If any Italians enter here they do so only as prisoners or corpses."

One of the stories circulated here is that an Italian airman shot down in the outskirts of Salonika was killed with pickaxes by indignant villagers. On Sunday after shooting down four Italian bombers, the Greeks were said to have taken captured Italian pilots to look upon the charred remains of their colleagues who had crashed in the city's main square.

Salonika, one of the most beautiful cities of the Mediterranean region, is strewn with glass and debris left in the wake of the first Italian air raids, but determination to resist is written on the face of every man and woman in the city.

Riverside Old Soldier Protests Crap Shooters on Sidewalks

By FRANK DRAKE.

An appeal for police protection against "crap shooters who push the people off the sidewalks most all day and especially in the late afternoon" was lodged with the county commissioners yesterday by John T. Lord, president of the newly organized Riverside Civic Club, located near Bolton.

Lord said boys and young men in the Riverside community "shoot craps" on the sidewalks practically all day and that things are getting along toward the unbearable stage out there.

"Why, in the late afternoon, you can hardly walk on the sidewalk at all there are so many crap shooters," said Lord. "And another thing, whenever a young woman passes along, there is much profanity and suggestive language."

"Why, we can't have that," said Ed Almand, commission chairman. "Are you sure they are not just

Whitehead Will Leave Funds To Give Indigent Women Home

$200,000 Left for Chair of Chemistry at Yale;
$20,000 for Secretary; Residuary Estate
Divided Between Wife, Mother.

In a will probated here yesterday, Conkey P. Whitehead, wealthy Atlantan, disposing of an estate unofficially estimated at several million dollars, made long-range provision for a foundation to maintain a home for indigent southern women and education for southern girls.

He also left $200,000 for a chair of chemistry at Yale University; $20,000 to his secretary and close associate, Samuel L. Jones; $10,000 for the education of Jones' son, Glower Whitehead Jones, and disposed of a villa in Baden-Baden, Germany, and a residence in Cuba, where he lived chiefly before his death last Saturday in a New York hospital.

The residuary estate is to be divided into two shares, one for his mother, Mrs. Lettie Pate Evans, of Hot Springs, Va., and the second for his wife, Mrs. Emma Garn Whitehead, during their lives.

Mrs. Evans' share, upon her death, is to form the capital of the Lettie Pate Whitehead Foundation, for southern women and girls. The wife's share, if there is no posthumous child, also will revert to the foundation at her death. The will was executed April 8, 1937.

Whitehead named the First National Bank of Atlanta as his executor and the law firm of Spalding, Sibley, Troutman & Brock as attorneys. Hughes Spalding, of the firm, and Herbert Claiborne, of Richmond, were appointed as trustees of the foundation, with power to appoint a third, who shall be a resident of a southeastern state other than those in which the two trustees reside.

Moran Named Fund Leaders Major To Fill Continue Plea; LeCraw's Post Need $200,000

Will Begin Duty at Se- lective Service Head- quarters Here.

Captain Wesley U. Moran, commanding officer of the colorful Governor's Horse Troop, was yesterday appointed a major on the staff of State Adjutant General Marion Williamson to succeed Mayor-elect Roy LeCraw, who resigned last week.

Moran assumes the rank of major and immediately will begin one year of active duty at the state selective service headquarters in the military department on Confederate avenue.

At the same time, General Williamson said he had promoted Major Clifford H. Hatcher to the rank of lieutenant colonel in the judge advocate general's department. Hatcher, however, will continue to serve as assistant director of selective service in Georgia, aiding Williamson, the director.

Appeal Extended Week in Effort To Attain $572,726 Goal.

(Picture on Page 12.)

Community Fund volunteer workers, nearly $200,000 short of their $572,726 goal, refused yesterday to quit on schedule and elected to extend their campaign for funds another week.

A total of $374,029 was posted on the big report board when several hundred of the 3,500 solicitors gathered at the Ansley hotel. They left with the determination to wind up the job by noon next Wednesday.

Appeal Chairman H. Carl Wolf told his fellow workers:

"I can say with full confidence that when we end this appeal we will be ahead of last year's total. To do that will require an intensive finishing up on the part of all of our volunteer workers."

Team captains and other appeal leaders in each division were asked to assemble for one final meeting next Wednesday in the Ansley to report on the clean-up week over which the campaign was extended yesterday.

As a symbol of the work already done by the vast army of solicitors, Mr. Wolf presented George K. Selden, Fund board of trustees chairman, with a huge bag filled with pledge cards and money.

Thanking Wolf and his appeal workers in behalf of Fund trustees, Mr. Selden in turn passed the bag along to Ralph Paris, member of the Family Welfare Society directorate, who was representing the 34 agencies which share in the Community Fund.

Reports yesterday by divisions, reflecting the total raised in each instance to date, were as follows: Men's Central, $10,418; Women's Central, $13,634; Office Buildings, $12,990; Groups, $252,938; Public Employees, $14,767; Advance Gifts No. 1, $44,401; Advance Gifts No. 2, $16,287; Decatur-DeKalb County, $5,055; College Park, $70; Hapeville, $123; East Point, $618; Roswell, $152; School Children, $1,451; and Colored Division, $1,125. Total reported yesterday since the previous report meeting was $58,308.

Chile Claims Antarctic Recently Visited by Byrd

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 6.—(UP)—The government issued a decree tonight claiming the entire Antarctic region lying between 53 and 90 degrees west longitude. This region includes Little America and territory visited recently by Admiral Byrd and his expedition.

F. D. R. Victory Cheers British And Chinese

Axis Expresses Indiffer- ence and No Preference of Candidates.

By The Associated Press.

Around the world last night, from the upper reaches of the Yangtze to Tokyo, London, Berlin and Rome the re-election of President Roosevelt evoked reaction ranging from totalitarian indifference to British gratification and Chinese jubilation.

Japan took the occasion to urge upon Mr. Roosevelt a "reorientation" of the United States' Far Eastern policy, because "Adriatic affairs present a different situation for the United States."

Berlin and Rome professed no surprise at the result nor any disappointment, expressing the view that as between Democratic and Republican policy on aid to Britain short of war, they had no preference; that the election was none of their business anyway.

Nelaps in London, even less so in Chungking.

The British press saw the result as a sign of a turning world tide against totalitarianism.

"... The blackest day Berlin has known since the beginning of the war," declared the London Evening Standard as part of the splash which the Roosevelt success made in the British press.

Chinese Jubilant.

Chinese in the Central government capital at Chungking thronged the streets and cheered the news that Roosevelt had won, and Finance Minister H. H. Kung gave a party in honor of United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson.

The press of the United States discreetly gave secondary prominence to the Roosevelt victory—preferring to dwell on Chief of State's current tour of southern France—and the only official comment was that France was most concerned with "building up Europe."

Le Temps, commenting that the third term was the main issue, said "it might be deduced that respect for certain political traditions have weakened on the other side of the Atlantic and that Roosevelt's policy has sensibly modified the spirit of the new American generations."

Berlin's Stand

Authorized quarters in Berlin pictured Germany as merely "an interested bystander" with "an almost complete indifference" to the result which, it was said there, as well as in Rome, the Axis powers had anticipated.

"How Roosevelt will govern, how he will make good his pledges to women's and men's organizations and Christian sects is a question of time," they added, apparently referring to the President's commitment against United States entry into war except in case of attack.

"We cannot prognosticate. The big participation in the elections indicated how deeply the question of keeping out of war stirred the American people."

(Rome expected F. D. R. to win; Turkey pleased with outcome. Story on Page 11.)

Mexico Discovers 'Propaganda' Cash

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Mexican customs authorities, reported to have acted on a tip from the United States government that a large sum was being sent here for Italian and German propaganda activities, discovered $2,000,000 in United States currency today in a diplomatic pouch borne by a special courier from the Italian embassy in Washington.

The courier was allowed to retain the money and Italian legation sources said that Count Alberto Marchetti, Italian minister to Mexico, had protested and obtained an apology for the search. This same source said it was assumed that the money was transported by pouch rather than through a bank draft so there would be no public record of transfer of so large a sum.

BACK TO WORK—And, it seems, he'll stay there for at least the next four years. Here President Roosevelt, victor in Tuesday's Presidential election, lays the cornerstone for a new post office in his home town of Hyde Park. That's Son John with him.

Move To Keep Willkie Calls Lewis at CIO For Unity as Helm Reported He Concedes

Associates Insist He Will Not Accept New Term.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Authoritative CIO sources reported today that some of the pro-Roosevelt leaders in the organization were now behind a movement to "draft" John L. Lewis for another term as president but those close to Lewis said the CIO leader felt he had made a commitment he could not revoke when he endorsed Wendell Willkie and told the nation in a radio speech two weeks ago that he would regard a Roosevelt victory as a vote of no confidence by labor in his leadership.

(Lewis refused to discuss the election result, the United Press said. He said he would resign at the CIO convention. Stretched across the entrance to his office in the United Mine Workers building today was a huge canvas inscribed: "Resignation accepted." On the door panes, written in soap, was: "The People's Choice—Roosevelt. Lewis—Phooey.")

Philip Murray, a Roosevelt supporter who has been Lewis' closest friend in the labor movement for 30 years, is regarded as the heir to the CIO presidency. While stepping down at the CIO convention November 18, Lewis will continue to be a figure in the labor movement since he also is president of the United Mine Workers Union. Rumors that Lewis was in danger of losing his influence in the miners' union were scoffed at by UMW representatives who contended that the mine workers would follow Lewis as labor leader if not as a political leader.

AFL sources said new moves to Continued on Page 2, Column 5.

Bears 'No Ill Will Nor Bitterness Toward Anyone,' He Says.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Almost in the same breath that he conceded President Roosevelt's re-election, Wendell Willkie appealed today for national unity and called ultimate adoption of his campaign principles "indispensable for the continuance of this free way of life."

The Republican candidate, declaring he had no plans beyond a two or three-week vacation, said he ended his campaign as he has entered it, "with no ill will nor bitterness toward anyone."

Restored after six hours of sleep, Willkie started the day by drafting a congratulatory telegram to the President.

"I know we are both gratified that so many American citizens participated in the election," it said. "I wish you all personal health and happiness."

Then in a radio talk he thanked all who supported him. "I know," he declared, "that they will continue as I shall to work for the unity of our people, in the completion of our defense effort, in sending aid to Britain and in insistence upon removal of antagonisms in America—all to the end that the government of free men may continue and may spread again upon the earth."

Willkie told reporters he expected to issue a statement in a few days on what part he believed the Republican party should play in national affairs during the coming years, and what part he wanted for himself within the party.

"I want to say I am feeling fine," he continued, "and I accept the election with complete good will. I am proud to have led the crusade I did, and I believe completely, and if anything more deeply, in it than I ever did before."

Capital Is Preparing Roaring Welcome for F.D.R. Arrival Today

By The Associated Press.
Presidential: President Roosevelt led last night in 39 states with 468 electoral votes, Wendell Willkie in nine with 63.

Popular vote: With 118,011 of the nation's 127,245 precincts counted, the total major party vote was 47,122,579, of which Roosevelt polled 25,694,747 and Willkie 21,427,832.

Senate: Twenty-two Democrats, 12 Republicans and one Progressive elected, giving the Republicans a net gain of four.

House: Democrats elected 263, Republican 162, American Labor 1, Progressive 3, Independent Democrat 1.

Governors: Seventeen Democrats and 15 Republicans elected, two undecided.

G. O. P. Gains Senate Seats

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Late returns swelled the already safe majority of Democrats in the house of representatives tonight, but Republicans scored a counterstroke with a net gain of four seats in the senate.

With all but a handful of contests decided, control of both houses rested where it has been since 1930 in the house and since 1932 in the senate—with the Democrats.

Riding the strong tide of votes that sent President Roosevelt to the White House for a third term, the Democrats recouped some of their 1938 house losses and had elected 264 members on the basis of incomplete returns—six more seats than they hold in the present congress and forty-six more than a majority.

G. O. P. Gains Offset

In the senate, where a continuance of Democratic control had been generally conceded in advance, Republicans took over four seats formerly held by Democrats and picked up another when Henrik Shipstead, a Farmer-Labor member, won re-election in Minnesota as a Republican.

The Democrats reduced this gain, however, when James M. Tunnell Sr., defeated Senator John G. Townsend Jr., the Delaware incumbent.

Still undecided was a see-saw battle in North Dakota, where former Governor William Langer, Republican, held a narrow lead over William Lemke, an Independent, for the senate seat formerly held by Lynn Frazier.

3 Progressives Win
Although house Republicans were still six short of the 167 membership of the present congress, they had a chance to win in some of the five undecided districts. Three Progressives, an Independent Democrat and an American Labor member were assured of election.

The returns showed Democrats taking over 23 house places formerly occupied by Republicans, while the Republicans captured 15 seats which had been held by Democrats, giving the Democrats a net gain of eight in the turnover. A Progressive displaced a Republican in Wisconsin.

A Langer victory in the North Dakota race would give the Republicans 28 members in the new senate compared with 24 at the present time. Should Lemke win, the Republicans would have but 27. Democrats had 44 holdover members and elected 22 Tuesday, giving them 66 instead of 69 as at present.

Willkie Wishes Roosevelt Well

By The Associated Press.
A will toward national unity manifested itself yesterday as the aftermath of the bitter, turbulent campaign which resulted in President Roosevelt's election to serve a tradition-smashing third term as the nation's chief executive.

It was evident in the editorials of newspapers which had strongly supported Wendell L. Willkie, the defeated Republican nominee, in the statements of many of the country's leading men, in the usual exchange of messages between victor and vanquished, and in a radio address made by Willkie early in the day.

Mr. Roosevelt, the winner and still "the champ," was in by another sweep of the Electoral College. Nine states remained in the Willkie column. The President was credited tentatively with 468 of 531 electoral votes, with the issue settled in all but a few states. The popular vote, with many ballots yet to be added to both sides, was much closer. It stood at 25,694,747 for Roosevelt and 21,427,832.

Draw Gratification.

Republican leaders drew much gratification from the fact that the President's popular plurality was running far below his 10,000,000 margin of 1936. In this a number of them, including Senator Charles L. McNary, the Republican vice presidential nominee, saw portents of a Republican victory in 1944. The statistics indicated that the party's popular vote this year would be the largest in its history.

The national capital meanwhile was busy preparing a roaring welcome for the President when he returns to town this morning. The Washington Post started the idea with a front-page editorial in the edition announcing his re-election, and it was readily picked up by city officials and others. The District of Columbia National Continued on Page 2, Column 3.

Alpha Fowler Jr. Is FFA Candidate

Alpha Fowler Jr., son of Representative and Former Senator Alpha Fowler, of Douglasville, will be boomed for the presidency of the national Future Farmers of America at the annual convention in Kansas City next week, Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, said yesterday.

Dr. Collins, Dr. M. D. Mobley, director of vocational education, Fowler and Henley Vansant, also of Douglasville, will leave Saturday for the convention. Dr. Collins said the delegation, hoped to nominate and elect young Fowler.

Vansant is southeastern winner in the FFA speaking contest and will participate in the national competition at Kansas City.

Atlanta Waits Lewis' Action At CIO Parley

South Has Members in 24 Unions Contained in Group.

Atlanta and the south generally, with membership in 24 national unions contained within the Congress of Industrial Organizations headed by John L. Lewis, will evince great interest in the CIO national convention in Washington, D. C., November 18 to 23, in view of Lewis' pre-election announcement he would resign in the event of a Roosevelt victory.

No one here yesterday would conjecture as to the action of Lewis or the convention. It was considered certain that Charles H. Gilman, head of the Atlanta automobile workers' local and CIO organizer, and Ray Lawrence, formerly of Atlanta and now of Charlotte, an official of CIO textile workers, would attend. A third possible delegate was Miss Lucy Randolph Mason, southern CIO representative.

Many southern leaders of the organization declined to follow Lewis' lead in backing the Willie candidacy, and the south voted strongly for Roosevelt in Tuesday's election. Lewis was understood to have taken the position southern leaders were free to make individual political choices without affecting their CIO activities.

Among southern industries represented by the CIO are coal, chemicals, furniture, textiles, automobile assembly, compresses, oil mills, iron and steel, quarries, packing houses, aluminum, toys and newspapers.

Ambulance Is Stolen

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 6.—(P)—Taking advantage of election excitement no doubt, thieves last night stole an $8,000 ambulance from a funeral home here.

Police broadcast a state-wide alarm—but the ambulance was still missing today.

National Unity Drive Gaining, Election Ended

Guard was ordered out to participate. Troops will line Pennsylvania avenue from the railroad station to the White House, and some government employees will be given time off to take part.

Willkie, defeated after a campaign which gained him stature as a determined, unquitting political fighter, conceded Roosevelt's victory hours after most of his supporters had given up. He sent the President a telegram this morning expressing his congratulations, gratification that so many had voted, and wishing him "all personal health and happiness."

McNary Concedes. McNary, who unlike Willkie, conceded the election before retiring, sent the President this telegram:

"Heartiest congratulations. Wishing you all grace and administration all prosperity." Mr. Roosevelt answered cordially: "Many thanks for your generous and therefore characteristic message, and I know you and I will work together in the national interest. I heartily reciprocate all your good wishes."

The President's reply to Willkie was: "Please accept my sincere thanks for your message of congratulation. I greatly appreciate the assurance of your good wishes for my health and happiness which I heartily reciprocate."

Off for Washington. Meanwhile, President Roosevelt headed for Washington last night after telling his Dutchess county neighbors "I'd rather live right here."

Earlier he indicated that peace and unity in labor's ranks would be an early objective of his third administration. The President's allusion to labor came during the day as he dedicated Hyde Park's new post office. Pressed by reporters for a "story," the President called their attention to men carrying signs which said: "When Lewis Resigns Labor Will Have Peace," and "Not Lewis, But Unity."

"Look the other way," said the President, nodding toward the signs. "There's your story."

As snow fell hundreds of the President's neighbors, most of them wearing heavy coats and raps, gathered about his special train tonight to give him a rousing send-off to Washington.

They assembled at the railroad station with a brass band, flags, bells and red torches and the President, from the rear platform of his train, extended an invitation for them to visit him in the White House.

"You've got another four years in which you know your neighbor is living in it," he said, "but I can also tell you I'd much rather live here."

Train Prevents Broadcast. A long passing freight train swept by the presidential special and prevented a radio audience from hearing the platform speech.

After waiting for the freight to pass and the noise to subside, the President smilingly remarked: "You know, I could preach a sermon on that, not only because 85 per cent of the Brotherhoods (of Railway Trainmen) voted for me, but also because in the last few weeks I've been traveling around quite a bit and I've noticed the freight trains were longer and a lot more frequent than for a long time in our history."

The President added that if he had campaigned a little longer he "could have used the trains as an example of this dreadful depression we've been hearing about."

Georgia Trip Unlikely. Just before his train pulled out, President Roosevelt said he probably would return to Hyde Park for a few days at Thanksgiving because he did not think he would be able to follow his usual custom of spending that holiday with patients at the Warm Springs (Ga.) infantile paralysis institute, since War Springs was more than 24 hours from Washington.

In connection with the President's indication that he would seek labor unity, it was recalled that Lewis, the CIO chief, came out for Willkie with a denunciation of the President, announced that if the President were re-elected he, Lewis, would resign as CIO leader because he would consider the result a vote of non-confidence in himself.

Lewis was saying nothing yesterday. Under the terms of his resignation, the resignation was to be submitted at the CIO's convention this month. The developments gave rise to increasing talk of a reconciliation between the CIO and the American Federation of Labor.

The Republicans scored gains in Ohio, where Harold H. Burton defeated John Mcweeney, Democratic nominee for the seat formerly held by Vic Donahey, and in Nebraska, where Hugh A. Butler won over Robert Leroy Cochran, former Governor, who had

COAL MINE REGIONS GO FOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(P)—President Roosevelt carried the principal coal-mining regions of the country by substantial majorities but except in Alabama, his edge over his Republican opposition was smaller this year than in 1936.

The presence this year of the third-term issue and other factors missing in the 1936 contest, however, complicated efforts to gauge the effect upon the miners of John L. Lewis' appeal for the President's defeat. Lewis' great test source of strength in the CIO is the United Mine Workers Union, of which he has been president for years.

Gubernatorial Races Marked By 9 Upsets

Republicans Register Net Gain of One in 32 Races.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(P)—Republicans registered a net gain of one gubernatorial post tonight as final returns filtered in on all but two of 34 governors' races in Tuesday's election.

A victory for Sam C. Ford, Republican, over Governor Roy E. Ayers, Democrat, in Montana, provided the Republicans with their fifth upset in state races. This was offset, in part, when Democrats won four governors' jobs formerly held by Republicans.

Democrats led in two races yet undecided.

In Kansas, William H. Burke, the Democratic nominee, held a lead of 1,722 over Governor Payne H. Ratner, Republican, with only one of the state's 2,734 precincts not counted. This race was expected to be decided only by an official canvass of the vote.

Dill in Front.

In Washington, Clarence C. Dill, former United States senator, was leading Arthur B. Langlie, the Republican nominee, by 3,925 votes with a little more than 300 precincts to be heard from.

The Republicans picked up five new governorships in Delaware, Illinois, Missouri, Montana and Nebraska.

In their four upsets, Democrats ousted four Republican governors—Michigan's Luren Dickinson, 81-year-old foe of "high life"; Rhode Island's William H. Vanderbilt; Connecticut's Raymond E. Baldwin and Idaho's C. A. Bottolfsen. In one of the late races reporting, Henry F. Schriker, Democrat, defeated Glen R. Hillis, a Republican, for governor of Indiana, a post now held by a Democrat.

Minnesota's Harold E. Stassen, keynote speaker at the Republican national convention, defeated Hjalmar Petersen, Farmer-Laborite, and Ed Murphy, Democrat.

And in Massachusetts, where President Roosevelt piled up a substantial lead, Republican Governor Leverett Saltonstall nosed out his Democratic opponent, Paul A. Dever.

Democratic governors elected were:

Sidney P. Osborn, Arizona; Homer M. Adkins, Arkansas; Robert A. Hurley, Connecticut; Spessard L. Holland, Florida; Eugene Talbade, Georgia; Chase A. Clark, Idaho; M. D. Van Wagoner, Michigan; Charles Edison, former secretary of the Navy, New Jersey; John E. Miles, New Mexico; Joseph M. Broughton, North Carolina; John Moses, North Dakota; J. Howard McGrath, Rhode Island; Prentice Cooper, Tennessee; W. Lee O'Daniel, Texas; Herbert J. Maw, Utah; former Senator Matthew M. Neely, West Virginia; Henry F. Schriker, Indiana.

Republicans Elected.

Republican governors elected were: Ralph L. Carr, Colorado; Dwight H. Green, Illinois; George A. Wilson, Iowa; Saltonstall; Stassen; Dwight Griswold, Nebraska; Robert O. Blood, New Hampshire; John W. Bricker, Ohio; Harlan J. Bushfield, South Dakota; William H. Willis, Vermont; Julius P. Hell, Wisconsin; Walter W. Bacon, Delaware; and Forrest C. Donnell, Missouri; Sam C. Ford, Montana.

In the pivotal state of Indiana, where Wendell Willkie appeared to have won the state's electoral votes, Henry F. Schriker, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, stayed out in front of Glen R. Hillis, his Republican opponent, but the balloting was close.

Adjoining Ohio rolled up a 150,000 lead for President Roosevelt, but returned Bricker to office over Martin L. Davey, former Democratic governor.

OFFICIALS NAMED.

ELLIJAY, Ga., Nov. 6.—E. Watkins Edwards, former representative and postmaster, yesterday was elected to succeed J. S. ## County Police Plainclothes Unit Formed

Employment of Three New Officers, Clerks Is Authorized.

A plainclothes detective department was created yesterday in the Fulton county police department and three new policemen and a clerk were employed in actions taken by the county commissioners at their November meeting.

The last grand jury had recommended that six policemen now employed be transferred to plainclothes duty, but did not recommend the employment of additional men.

The commissioners, upon the recommendation of Chief George Mathieson and Dr. Charles R. Adams, chairman of the police committee, authorized the chief to detail three additional policemen to work with the present officer in plainclothes, and voted unanimously to hire A. L. Bone, T. L. Orr and Lawrence Cook to replace the men on the uniform force.

They also voted to employ Frank Jordan Jr., son of Captain Frank Jordan, as a clerk in the record department.

Chief Mathieson has not announced the personnel of the new detective department. John Carter already is assigned to plainclothes duty.

The commissioners did not consider any of the other grand jury recommendations.

Chief Mathieson already had announced he will order all policemen to attend an FBI conducted police school to begin in about two weeks.

Because a public works foreman had employed a man without permission of the board, the commissioners adopted Gloor Haley's motion to require foremen and superintendents to pay such unauthorized employees out of their own pockets in the future.

Requests for two additional clerks in the tax receiver's office and for the establishment of an information bureau in the lobby of the courthouse were filed by the commissioners.

Livestock Freight Rate Hearing To Open Today

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 6.—(AP)

The fifth phase of southern states' complaints of alleged discriminatory livestock freight rates will be opened before Interstate Commerce Commission examiners here tomorrow.

The Georgia case will be featured in Savannah. Other hearings have been held in Atlanta, Louisville, Ky.; Washington and Johnson City, Tenn.

Chairman Walter R. McDonald, of the Georgia Public Service Commission, said testimony of eastern packers would be presented "to show they are unable to buy southern livestock on the basis of present rate levels in competition with livestock from other more favored sections."

Knight Relates Events Leading Up to Slaying

Weinman Beat Him, He Tells Jury in Bartow Murder Trial.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 6.

In an impassioned plea in his own behalf before a Bartow county jury, John Knight, 50-year-old mine operator, today told how he fatally shot Andrew W. Weinman after the latter "knocked me down and beat me."

Knight's action in taking the stand climaxed a day during which a number of other witnesses testified. He is on trial on charges of murdering Weinman, prominent 35-year-old local mine executive, at the home of T. E. Johnsey the night of October 25.

Johnsey, one of the day's earlier witnesses, said Knight left his home from three to five minutes before Weinman's departure, and that a shot was heard a half minute after the latter left.

Knight later told of events leading up to a fight outside the Johnsey home. Following an argument at the Johnsey's place, he said, he left and was followed by Weinman. "As I turned, Andy knocked me down and beat me," he said. "I saw him over me and I shot him."

Mrs. Johnsey and Dave Hale, who had been with Weinman and Knight before the shooting, testified, as did Dr. W. E. Wofford, who attended Weinman.

The trial will be resumed tomorrow morning before Judge John C. Mitchell, of the Cherokee circuit.

W. W. Wells Is Elected Clayton Representative

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

JONESBORO, Ga., Nov. 6.—W.

W. Wells today stood elected to the Clayton county seat in the general assembly, after polling 1,315 votes over a total write-in of 62 for O. J. Coogler, twice officially certified as nominee.

In the state primary, Coogler led Wells. After protests by the latter, both old and new county Democratic executive committees approved Coogler as the nominee. The fight later was carried to the state committee, which ruled a run-off should be held in the general election. Coogler withdrew.

Powell Loses to Bray For Johnson Ordinary

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 6.

C. T. Bray, Democratic nominee for ordinary of Johnson county, won in yesterday's election by a majority of 346 votes over incumbent Tom J. Powell.

The unofficial vote was: Bray, 1,543; Powell, 1,197.

Powell Saturday was enjoined from placing his name on the Democratic ticket with Bray's, so wrote his name in on the margin of the ballot next to the party ticket, rather than list it as an independent.

Russia, 'Armed, Neutral,' Marks Date of Revolt

Soviet To Stay Out of War, Declaration Asserts.

MOSCOW, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Russia's Moscow District Soviet marked the 23d anniversary eve of the Bolshevik rise to power tonight with a declaration of continuing Russian neutrality and armed vigilance.

"True to its policy of peace and neutrality," said the statement, "the U. S. S. R. will not participate in war. We must remember the international situation is full of surprises. Therefore, as (Joseph) Stalin said, we must keep the entire nation in a state of constant military preparedness."

President Michael Kalinin, of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet, endorsing this policy, declared, "in this will be contained also our duty to the international proletariat."

The statements were issued as the Soviet Union, newly enlarged by territory from six neighboring countries, assembled delegates from its 16 constituent republics for the anniversary celebration.

Kennedy Hints He May Not Go Back to Britain

Early Resignations Among Other Envoys Are Expected.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy indicated today he might not return to London and early resignations among other envoys were expected to follow the election.

Kennedy called at the State Department for the first time since he returned from England 10 days ago. He conferred with Secretary Hull and Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state.

Asked when or whether he would return to London, he said he had no plans and had not discussed the subject with any officials. He plans to go to Calfornia and then to Florida for a rest.

He has been mentioned for various other government posts, including the chairmanship of the National Defense Commission.

Other diplomats who took part in the presidential campaign and may soon resign are William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France; Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, ambassador to Poland; John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium, and Mrs. Florence Harriman, minister to Norway. The countries to which Biddle, Cudahy and Mrs. Harriman are assigned are all occupied by Germany.

Hatcher Made Judge Advocate Of State Guard

He Will Be Succeeded as Major by L. T. Gillen.

Major Clifford Hatcher, who was elevated to a lieutenant colonel yesterday, has been named judge advocate of the Georgia National Guard, succeeding Lieutenant Colonel Benjamin J. Fowler, who retired several months ago upon reaching 64 years of age.

Succeeding Hatcher as major will be Captain L. T. Gillen, former aide to Governor Rivers, who was called to active duty last September. Gillen will continue to serve as legal advisor in the state Selective Service Department.

Lieutenant Harry O. Smith was, in turn, promoted to the captain's rank vacated by Gillen. Captain Smith has been assigned as assistant procurement officer at headquarters. Lieutenant William S. Waldo also becomes a captain, and succeeds Major Hatcher as commanding officer of Battery C, 101st Antiaircraft regiment—formerly the Governor's Horse Guard. Major Moran yesterday was named to the adjutant general's staff.

In making the appointments, General Williamson said he had followed seniority and regular lines of military succession as far as possible.

veteran, and is connected in Atlanta with the Southern Freight Association. A National Guard officer since 1922, he has completed all guard requirements and was noted in this section as a polo player on the Horse Guard team. Captain William M. Crawford, named also to the adjutant's staff, for the past four years has been in the finance office of the Fourth Corps Area. A guardsman since 1922, he is a member of the 101st separate battalion, coast artillery, antiaircraft. He will be assigned to the selective service finance department.

Major Charles F. Heard, also advanced from the rank of captain to that of major on the adjutant's staff, is commander of the 193d tank battalion, and has been a commissioned officer since 1928. A graduate of Mercer University, he will be assigned to duty in the inspector general's department.

Colonel Hatcher has been state assistant director of selective service since the department was organized here. He is a Waynesboro attorney, a graduate of the University of Georgia, and a guardsman since 1927. Major Gillen has been in the guard two years, serving much of the time as assistant judge advocate. He, too, is a graduate of Mercer.

Captain Smith is a member of the 214th Coast Artillery and has served for many years in the United States Property and Disbursing Office here. Captain Waldo, an Atlanta insurance man, has served in the guard five years and is a graduate of the chemical warfare and cavalry schools.

Hoover Urges Co-operation, Preparedness

Transcendent Duty To Keep Out of War, He Says.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 6.—(P) Former President Herbert Hoover said in an election comment tonight "the transcendent duty now is the full co-operation of everybody" toward national preparedness and keeping out of foreign wars.

He issued this statement at his home:

"Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace are to be congratulated. Mr. Willkie and Mr. McNary made a good fight. When the people speak their voice is heard."

"The Roosevelt administration has the responsibility of government and leadership in national policies. Yet our whole democratic system depends on the maintenance of two great political parties. The Republican party has the responsibility to carry on construction opposition and to contend for its principles."

"The anvil of debate is in fact an instrument which creates national unity."

LONDON URGES FULL CO-OPERATION

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 6.—(P)—Alf M. Landon said tonight Americans had taken an "intelligent interest" in the national election and that now they must "grin and go back to work."

"The safety of the republic requires our full co-operation on our defense program and at the same time a continued active political opposition," the 1936 Republican presidential nominee said in a prepared address.

Red Friendship Gesture To Turkey Reported

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 6.—(P)—Soviet Russia was reported unofficially tonight to be withdrawing some of her troops from the Turkish-Soviet Caucasian frontier as a gesture of friendship for this country.

The same sources giving this information also said that Moscow and Ankara might soon open negotiations toward a new trade agreement.

Apply This and Kill the Itch (Scabies)

To get relief from the Itch, apply Sitchide, a liquid preparation, which is absorbed beneath the outer skin, where parasites breed, and kills in 30 minutes those itch mites with which it comes in contact. At any drugstore, or sent direct for 60c. Sitchide Co., Commerce, Ga. (adv)

Axis Raiders Open London Attack Early

RAF Battles Enemy in Dusk; Nazi Oil Sheds Bombed.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(P)—The Axis bombers came earlier than ever tonight to batter London, Southampton and Liverpool and to pay off in devastation and death for British air raids from the North sea to Naples.

They flew in the quickening November dusk, which now has lengthened Britain's nightly black-out to nearly 14 hours, and the bombs fell swiftly.

London's antiaircraft thundered with unusual intensity as the first bomb explosions were heard. At Southampton, even earlier, public buildings and houses had been crushed, an unestimated number of persons killed and wounded, and students, teachers and office workers buried, alive and dead, in the rubble of an art school and office building.

It still was light enough for the Spitfires to fight it out with the raiders when they flew en masse at Southampton, and the air ministry reported most of the attackers failed to get over the coast. Despite the frenzy of the attack, many Londoners left shelters during the morning hours and went home to bed. This fatalistic trend has been increasing during the week.

One raiding plane dived to 600 feet to machinegun passengers waiting for a train, but a British Spitfire came right behind and chased the enemy skyward.

The air ministry's communique listed Royal Air Force raids overnight on shipyards at Bremerhaven and Bremen; petroleum sheds at Emden, where 30 fires were reported started; a power station at Hamburg and a submarine building yard at Vegesack, near Bremen.

Italy Admits Raids.

The "invasion ports" from Flushing to Boulogne were bombed heavily, and numerous German-occupied airfields were raided. The British lost two bombers, shot down one fighter. Italian communiques acknowledged the third British raid in less than a week on the Naples area, and saying 14 persons were killed. Presumably Naples is being raided from Crete or Malta.

HE CELEBRATES TWICE.

Wells Halladay, East Dover, Vt.'s, oldest resident, celebrated both his 100th birthday and 50 years of married life with his second wife during the same week.

2 County Aides File Demands For 'Back Pay'

Simmons and Jeffries Contend Salaries Cut Illegally.

J. W. Simmons, clerk of Fulton Superior Court, and Thomas H. Jeffries, county ordinary, yesterday filed demand with the county commissioners for $1,062.50 back salary they claim is due each of them because of illegal salary reductions in 1932.

In identical letters, the two county officials pointed out that their salaries were legally set in November, 1931, by the county commissioners at $9,000 for each of them in 1932. But they only received $7,937.50, they said.

They cited a similar case involving the late Edwin F. Johnson, who was tax receiver in 1932, to whose estate the county commissioners were ordered by the courts to pay approximately $1,300 this year for the same reason Mr. Johnson's salary was legally set and later reduced. The commissioners referred the two new requests to the legal department for a report.

Death of Child Ends Parents' Custody Fight

Nervous Ailment Fatal to Night Club Singer's Daughter, 6.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(P)—The death of 6-year-old Jacqueline Long today put an end to the battle her parents, Night Club Singer Bunny Howard and Frank J. Long, a program vendor, waged for her custody.

The little girl died last night of a nervous ailment.

Last month Jacqueline's parents and their attorneys joined in a free-for-all scramble for her in the Supreme Court building during a recess in the custody suit. Miss Howard finally made off with the child when Long sprawled to the floor. Jacqueline was not injured in the scuffle.

Today lawyers for both parents said their separation suits would be dropped, since the child's custody was the main point of contention.

"There's nothing to fight over now," said Miss Howard.

When the British burned Washington in 1814, the Patent Office was saved by a plea to the British not to "burn what would be useful to all mankind."

Food for Child Is Described By Sally Saver

Expert Gives List of 'Musts' for Youngster's Diet.

The minimum requirements of food for a child of grammar school age were outlined by Sally Saver, foods editor of The Constitution, yesterday for the members of the James L. Key school P-T. A. Speaking on "Feeding the Growing Child," Miss Saver gave the following list of "musts" on a child's diet: One quart of milk; one egg; two vegetables, one of which should be leafy; two fruits, one of which should be citrus or a tomato; liver once a week; fish or salmon once a week; whole grain cereal and breads; lean meat, and sweets made with dark sugars or dried fruits. These should be the basis of active children's diet, Miss Saver said, and other foods may be added but none should be substituted.

In discussing foods, Miss Saver pointed out the quantities needed by children for daily activities, for repair of their systems, and for growth. She also told the group of diet methods for disease prevention and teeth and bone building.

Young leaves are often pink or lavender tinted, which protects the green chlorophyll from the sun's rays.

Now That It's Over

The presidential campaign is over. The votes are counted and the result is known. No longer does the nation have to listen to claims and accusations, to campaign promises and political distortions. No more is it necessary to consider the "political angle" of every statement by every public man, on every item of national or international policy.

There is gratification in the ranks of the Democrats that President Roosevelt has again been chosen to lead the country. Gratification in which The Constitution wholeheartedly joins. This paper supported Roosevelt and, although Georgia and the south were known to be, as usual, "solid" for the Democratic candidate, there is yet keen satisfaction in the surprisingly large plurality rolled up by the party of the south.

There has never, really, been any danger to democracy in the third term. That issue was a bugaboo set up by Republicans and Willkiecrats, not very effective in frightening the voters. There is no danger to democracy in this country while so many free voters can march to the polls and cast their ballots according to conscience and belief, without fear and without intimidation.

The campaign just closed could, however, contain a lesson which would be of tremendous benefit to the nation if taken to heart. Unfortunately, this 1940 campaign was marred by mud-slinging, unwarranted charges and, worst of all, by the use of unrestrained "rumor" in attempts to "smear" one candidate or the other. Some of these "rumors," had they not been so vicious, would have been ridiculous in absurdity.

It is tragic that, in a nation so devoted to education, so proud of its free, and intelligent, electorate, that national campaigning has to degenerate into something so undesirable. Fortunately, the politicians who indulge in such unethical practices are largely guilty of underestimating the intelligence of the Americans whose votes they thus seek to influence.

A national political campaign, especially in times like these when the issues involved are of such terrifying importance, both to this nation, this continent and to the whole civilized world, should be an opportunity for national education. Serious, dignified debate upon the issues would do more to educate the people on the true situation of their country, and the world of which it is a part, than any other conceivable influence.

The campaign, and the election, however, are over. Franklin Delano Roosevelt is our President for the next four years. Those four years hold promise of being the most critical and vital years in history.

It is fortunate that the voters had the wisdom to select the one man who, by experience and knowledge of world affairs, diplomacy and international complications, is best fitted to steer this nation along the proper course.

The great things, the important things, now, are the national defense program and America's role in the distraught world. We must, as a nation, concentrate on these and stand, united and agreed, behind our chosen national administration.

Don't Forget, Mister Lewis!

Some campaign promises are made to be kept. Some are made to be forgotten.

There was one promise made in the presidential campaign, however, that the whole nation is now waiting to see fulfilled. The vast majority, waiting eagerly.

John L. Lewis declared, in his radio support of Wendell Willkie that, if Roosevelt was re-elected, he would resign his presidency of the CIO.

If Lewis fulfills that pledge, it will be one of the greatest possible steps on the road toward peace in organized labor in the United States. Lewis has ever been the most disturbing, most radical factor in the labor wars and disputes that have caused so much unnecessary trouble in recent years.

He was the father of the "sit-down strike" idea. He has ever been the most unreasonable and disruptive influence in the councils of labor, among themselves, as well as in their relationship with employers.

There are several able, conscientious and successful labor leaders available to take the CIO presidency if it becomes vacant. Men who not only have the confidence of labor, but the full respect of management of industry.

It is sincerely to be hoped, for the good of the nation and even more for the good of organized labor, that the presidency of the CIO does, quickly, become vacant in accord with the Lewis campaign promise.

A western dean of men thinks many of the boys and girls come to college far too young. Not in the campus musical films we see.

The Real Menace

The bombing of London and of all Britain has provided the dramatic highlight of the struggle between Nazism and Great Britain, ever since the collapse of France and the retreat from Dunkerque. As a background motif to the crashing of the bombs and the aerial combats of Spitfires and Messerschmitts, there has been the threat of invasion, by the Germans from across the channel, a threat which has now been demoted to the status of nothing more than a scare.

But it is startling to read that Winston Churchill, speaking before Commons, confirms the impression that has been growing on this side of the ocean. That is, the really serious menace to Britain is Germany's submarines and their successes against the merchant marine.

Britain, undoubtedly, is losing too many ships at sea. So far, the attrition on her total tonnage is small. When offset by gains through shipbuilding since the war began, the net loss is almost insignificant.

Of recent weeks, however, the losses have mounted. The U-boats, aided by bombing planes, are sending too many British keels to the bottom. And Britain must keep reasonably safe the channels of ocean-borne commerce to feed her millions and to provide the war material which will decide the outcome. She must, above all, keep the Atlantic open for shipments from Canada and the United States.

The danger is real, but it must bring keen satisfaction to the vast majority of Americans to know that the 50 United States destroyers, traded to Britain for air and naval bases, on lease, are coming into British service just at the time their services are most vitally needed.

We spend a million for a best-seller on how to influence people, and billions for planes and battleships to make sure.

That's How It Starts

Lee Rogers, the sky-scraping movie editor of The Constitution, has committed almost an unpardonable sin. Just at the time when a ga-ga nation was recovering from an "Oomph" girl, he has dubbed a potential successor the "Ah-h-h-h" girl and if Hollywood ever sees that headline slip of Mr. Rogers, then the fat indeed will be in the fire.

While the chronicler of movie doings has a pat answer to reproofs, a simple "well, can you think of something better," the fact remains that publicity directors in Hollywood are almost ravenous when it comes to snatching up little expressive words like "Ah-h-h-h" and making more than the most of them. So if a wave of "Ah-h-h-h's" sweep the country, all will know where lies the blame. For shame! Mr. Rogers.

A league to smile our way out of the manifold perplexities of the age is proposed. This could go on till one of us asks himself, "What am I laughing about?"

In upstate New York, a filling station explosion did damage to a nearby chop suey parlor. Ah, well, such is life in the Far Eastern countries.

AMERICAN DEFENSE COSTS.

"If the bill for the national defense program during the next five years should be paid it accrues from the money Americans usually spend for luxuries, it would take all of the money which ordinarily goes for beverages, both soft and alcoholic, tobacco, motion picture shows, jewelry, radios, cosmetics and furs," says the CINCINNATI ENQUIRER, adding: "The building and maintenance of new national defense establishments is expected to cost an average of slightly more than $7,000,000,000 a year." Accepting that statement, the JACKSONVILLE TIMES-UNION declares, "Although many believe that it is necessary for us to rearm as planned in the past few months it involves a serious burden upon the American standard of living. And this need not be dismaying if it is to be limited to a period of emergency."

"The cost of modern armaments is hardly less astounding than the length of time and the amount of skill required to build them," says the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE, which continues: "Roughly the Navy puts down the cost of a dreadnaught at $100,000,000; a cruiser $30,000,000; an airplane carrier at $47,000,000; a submarine at $8,000,000. Even a destroyer costs about $8,000,000. The average cost of a navy plane seems to be about $50,000. . . . By the time we get well into the task of building a two-ocean navy, an air force of 50,000 planes and a modern army of more than 1,000,000 men—and of paying for them—there is hardly any American but will understand better the meaning of a nation in arms." However, "If our emerging defense drive safeguards us against dangers it will be cheap, whatever the cost in dollars," says the PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER, which points out that "Maintenance of the German army of occupation is costing France $8,000,000 a day."

With enactment of "the bill allowing assignment of government contracts to banks by corporations as security for loans, the nation's leading financiers now have an excellent opportunity to prove their claims that the country's banks stand as a unit back of the national defense program," says the WASHINGTON STAR, which goes on: "Ten banks in New York report they have approximately $3,000,000,000 available for loans for defense purposes" and "This authority to use contracts as collateral for borrowing funds furnishes a golden opportunity to country banks to keep their dollars busy."

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

TROUBLE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Now the election is over, it is necessary, unfortunately, to face cruel realities again. As these words are written, the results of the voting are still uncertain, but whichever candidate is victorious he will have to deal with the same grim facts abroad.

They are getting grimmer, moreover, by the day. Despite the gallant resistance of the Greeks, even despite the possibility that the faintly comic Italians will commit another international blunder, the prospects of the British in the Mediterranean are very dark indeed.

An indication of the real state of affairs was an informal overture made last week by the British foreign office to the State Department. In the most unofficial manner possible, the British wished to know whether the United States might conceivably consider guaranteeing Russia's Asiatic borders against Japanese aggression.

The Russians were asking for such a guarantee as the preliminary to an extension of the conversations now being conducted at Moscow by the unhappy Sir Stafford Cripps beyond their present field of minor trade relations. The British, of course, passed on the Russian request only in order to exhaust every possibility. And the reply, of course, was that no guarantee could be offered.

RUSSIAN LINE Nevertheless, the character of the Russian demand, and the willingness of the British to pass such a demand on, suggests very clearly what the true Russian line in the Mediterranean probably will be, and how anxious the British are about it.

There is no doubt, to be sure, that Stalin would like to slow down the Axis if he could. The Germans have won their victories too rapidly to suit him. But Stalin is a realist, knows the German strength, and is extremely unwilling to oppose the Axis effectively at this juncture. Consequently, instead of offering resistance to the Axis, as many people now expect, the Russians are thought much more likely to enter into a fresh deal. Rumors of a deal have already been set afoot by reports of Foreign Affairs Commissar Molotov's proposed journey to Berlin. And if the deal takes the form feared by informed men here, it will be a hard blow to the British cause in the Mediterranean.

As authoritatively predicted, the deal will involve a temporary German withdrawal in Rumania, in return for action by Russia to neutralize Turkey. During the early stages of the current Balkan crisis, as a gesture to keep the Germans within bounds, the Russians withdrew most of their troops from Turkey's Caucasian frontier. So long as Turkey is not threatened from the Caucasus, President Ismet Inönü can contemplate co-operation with the British and the Greeks. But if Russia renews her threat, co-operation will become difficult, if not impossible. That is just what Russia is now thought fairly likely to do, in return for control over the Rumanian mouth of the Danube and certain other concessions and assurances, probably involving the ultimate fate of the Black Sea straits.

BLACK OUTLOOK With no help to be looked for from Turkey, the situation of Greece becomes perilous indeed, particularly in view of the recurrent reports that German troops will soon be aiding the Italians. If Greece falls, the British fleet in the Mediterranean will be immediately threatened by strong German shore-based aircraft.

Furthermore, the situation in the French colonies is far from promising. Marshal Weygand, the man who really controls the colonies, is supremely bitter against everyone—his own government, the British, the Germans, the Italians—with the bitterness of an actor who has been made to play a bad role in an unsuccessful play. And while the authorities below him in French Africa are privately strongly pro-British, Mittelhauser, the general in command in strategic Syria, is a weak old man who may well consent to being supplanted by someone more Lavalist in sympathies. If the French colonies become Axis bases, or even if Syria alone falls under Axis control, the British situation in the Mediterranean will become well-nigh hopeless.

Luckily, these are events which the United States can influence. It is probably too late to reinforce Russian policy, and, in any case, the Russian price, even when seriously calculated, would probably be too high. But whether or no Greece goes and the Balkans are finally lost to the Axis, the French colonies may be saved by American money, judiciously distributed, and by a strong reassertion of this country's support of Britain. The time to act is passing fast, but the election is over, and there is still some time left.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Surprised—But Pleasantly. Frankly, the outcome of Tuesday's election was surprising to me, in one respect. I was surprised at the size of the Roosevelt margin.

During the closing days of the campaign, and on Tuesday before the returns came in, lots of folks asked my opinion as to the outcome—as if I'd know! However, I answered them all to the same effect: "I think Roosevelt will win, but it will be a close race. Too close for betting much on either man."

Then you see what happened. I think my erroneous idea as to the closeness of the race was caused by the Gallup poll, which also placed the outcome much closer than it actually was. Gallup, you remember, gave Roosevelt the edge, but with only 52 per cent of the popular vote. I guess Gallup, like most everybody else, fails to allow enough for that tremendous personal popularity of the President among the type of voters who are not vocal, but whose ballots count just the same as those of the most vociferous partisans.

Ridiculous Assertions. I couldn't talk about it until after the election was over, but I heard some of the most ridiculous assertions, and wildest bits of propaganda—much of it dirty—in this campaign I ever heard.

There was the story "brought home by Flossie, our highly valued cook and housemaid at the Jones home. She asked, seriously, the other day if it was true that President Roosevelt and Adolf Hitler are cousins! She just wanted straight information, she said, in order to refute some Negro men in her neighborhood who swore that was an actual relation."

Who is it who spreads such silly things about, hoping to catch a vote or two from among the ignorant? That's the kind of thing that weakens one's faith in America, when men stoop to such depths in order to snare a vote or two. Candidates elected by such unscrupulous methods are doomed to failure in office, even if they win an election.

Traveling Salesman. There is a young traveling salesman of my acquaintance. He travels all over the south, all the time, calling on the larger industrial establishments.

He told me, in all seriousness, that Wendell Willkie would probably carry some of the southern states. Asked for the foundation of his belief, he said the men he contacted in the course of business were all for Willkie. I pointed out to him that the men he contacted were the presidents, general managers, purchasing agents, and so forth of the big states. ### Broods Over Crimes of His Youthful Days

Dr. Wightman F. Mellon has a piece in his son Quimby's Griffin Daily News about an old army musket he acquired as a boy—trading his daddy's worn-out razor for it with a Negro friend. What boy of that day didn't have a Negro friend—or a hundred? I can remember Tunker and Big Sis and Little Sis and Gopher Stew and Catfish. If I'd had brains enough I could have been a second Uncle Remus. Or maybe a poor third.

Dr. Mellon confesses that when he acquired that army musket—and he puts it into what we've learned to call Walt Mason verse, because Walt did it so much better than anybody else has been able to do—he shot bluebirds and anything else in sight. He's ashamed of it now. But our sins of youth have a way of haunting us. I once drowned a neighbor's cat—with a rock tied to his neck. And many's the time he came back to haunt me.

I too, shot bluebirds and mock-birds and anything that would sit still long enough. I didn't know any better. And once, a friend lent me a magnificent Winchester repeating rifle, of .44 caliber. Almost the size of your thumb. With one cartridge. I didn't want to waste that on a tin can at a hundred yards, in case I'd miss.

So I shot at a sparrow in a tree. Fifteen feet away. Superb marksmanship! Found one feather, in-rimmed with blood, as the poet says. Remains of sparrow dispersed in the atmosphere.

That was one fine exhibition of sportsmanship, wasn't it? Bullet big enough to kill a tiger. And murdering a sparrow—and him a sittin'.

Lot of things in my life I've been sorry about. But that kind sticks out.

Lose Luther? No!

Story in Athens Banner-Herald says the Stiles Brothers Company has bought the Georgian hotel in Athens, adding it to its successful chain. Which includes one in Milledgeville, the original Stiles home.

I hope this doesn't mean that Luther Nelson, former boss, will be missing when I go to an Athens football game or the annual Press Institute in February. Or Mrs. Nelson and her tiny toy Manchester dogs. They're swell people.

There's one reassuring note. Story says Asa Hewell, assistant manager for years, will stick on the job. And I'm pretty sure Lee Bowden and Miss Eva will preside over the news stand and cigar dispensary. If they don't I'm going somewhere else. If there is somewhere else.

Echo of last Tuesday: Folk who called up, asked for me personally, and desired to know how the election was going. At 10:30 a. m. As if I knew. Or anybody knew. Oh, well, it's nice to have friends give you a ring. It does prove they remember you're alive.

Blue Moons.

"Once in a blue moon," means mighty seldom. I thought it was just an expression, like "I ain't seed you since Hec was a pup." But Editor Henry McIntosh, of the Albany Herald, who knows a lot of things, says there actually was a blue moon Friday night, November 1, and that a lot of Albany folk noticed it and wanted to know how come. He says it's a matter of light reflected by the earth, which gives the moon a bluish tint, but the rest of his explanation was beyond me.

I didn't see the blue moon. I've heard of blue hogs, but never observed one. We once had a blue Persian cat named Smoky Joe but he was black. When I was a youngster we heard of "blue babies," born that way because their mothers had absorbed too much mercury—in the form of blue mass pills—into their system. Or so I was told. But except with flowers and birds nature seems to avoid blue. And pink. Though I have been told by a few intimate friends of the perfectly marvelous pink elephants which had crept through the keyhole the night before. I never saw one of those, either. And don't want to.

Jim Brady, professional sword swallower, has been showing off in Eastman, according to the Dodge County Advertiser, and offering to teach the art to all comers. Which does not arouse my ambition. I once concentrated on the first three of 10 easy lessons to master the mandolin and subscribed to a $15 course on jiu-jitsu (if that's how you spell it), by which I could learn to subdue the fiercest and most powerful foe. But the only man I could find who'd be the adversary, victim, or stooge, upon whom I could practice was the man who delivered the morning ice. And he wouldn't play fair. Which was one of the reasons I bought an electric refrigerator.

Coldest Weather of Fall Is Forecast for Atlanta

Coldest weather of the fall—36 degrees—has been forecast for Atlanta today by the United States Weather Bureau. Skies will be fair, however, and a bright sun will send the thermometer up to 54 by mid-afternoon. Light frost will accompany the cold weather, bureau officials said.

Yesterday's high and low readings were 62 and 45 degrees.

Good Morning—By Louie D. Newton

Gathering time in 1940 will long be remembered as the finest weather conditions we have had in years. There were two solid months of sunshine in September and October, broken only once or twice in light showers of almost negligible rainfall. Lack of rain-fall was quite a handicap in the matter of sowing fall crops and in the maturing of late summer crops, but the sunshine was fine for most other activities on the farm. I guess there was more cotton picked this fall without a drop of rain on it in many years.

Mr. Greer sent the mule and plow Tuesday, and we dug our potatoes and turned in the patch, sowing Austrian peas and red clover. As we made the last round with the harrow, it started raining—a perfect finish. Do you know what I'm talking about when I try to express the music of rain dripping off the eaves of a shelter in the yard when you have come in from work in the field, having finished the particular piece of work you were trying to get done before it rained? Then you know how we felt Tuesday afternoon.

There were the golden ears of corn in the crib, the bright yellow pods of peas, the mellowing pumpkins, the juicy yams—all safely sheltered—and the first winter rain was falling softly on the roof, dripping from the eaves into the thirsty earth, forming little

Ford To Make 4,000 Engines For U. S. Planes

Auto Company to Swing Into Mass Output for Rearmament.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(P)—The War Department awarded the Ford Motor Company today a $122,323,020 order for more than 4,000 warplane engines.

The Ford company, latest of the major automobile manufacturers to swing into mass production for defense, contracted to turn out Pratt & Whitney air-cooled radial engines of from 1,600 to 1,700 horsepower.

The engines were described as the latest version of a type already in wide use on both Army and Navy planes. Records indicated the order was the largest single contract for airplane engines since the rearmament program was launched.

Anticipating the order, the Ford company already is erecting a new engine-making plant at Detroit. Though the War Department disclosed no details, airmen believed the first of the new motors would be produced by next summer.

The order was the first of the current defense program to be awarded the Detroit manufacturer and completed negotiations which bogged down last June when American defense efforts were accelerated.

Henry Ford first proposed to manufacture planes. The Army flew a Curtiss P-40 pursuit ship to Detroit for inspection after the manufacturer was quoted as saying it appeared feasible to turn out 1,000 planes a day by mass production methods.

When an agreement failed to be reached on planes, Ford was offered a contract for 9,000 Rolls-Royce engines of British design. He rejected it, saying that he would limit his defense efforts to helping arm the United States only. Six thousand of the proposed engines were earmarked for Great Britain.

Another job I always enjoy at the close of gathering time is getting up all the tools and going over them with a coat of paint, straightening out the bent prongs on the rakes and forks, sharpening the hoes and shovels and spades. I heard a farm machinery man say some time ago that one of the greatest assets of the manufacturer of farm implements was the carelessness of the average farmer in leaving his plows and tools out in the winter weather, hastening their destruction, and thus requiring new tools every spring. That remark made me feel pretty bad. I am afraid it is all too true, reminded as I am, every time I make a trip, of that man's remark by the frequent sight of valuable farm implements standing out in the weather, when there is ample shelter for them, if only somebody would go to the trouble to put them under it.

Neil Gallagher Is Rich's New Ad Manager

Comes to Atlanta From Business Career in Rochester, N. Y.

Neil Gallagher, formerly of Rochester, N. Y., yesterday assumed his duties as advertising manager of Rich's, Inc., Richard H. Rich, vice president and publicity director of the firm, announced.

Mr. Gallagher comes to Atlanta after a business career spent with one of Rochester's leading department stores, and where he was also vice president of the Rochester Advertising Club, one of the most active in the country.

He comes as an addition to Rich's advertising personnel and does not replace any former employee, Rich officials announced. As manager, he will have entire supervision of all Rich's advertising, a post made necessary by the expansion of the store.

In Rochester, Mr. Gallagher was also active in radio work, conducting a musical appreciation program, and a quiz program sponsored by the Grange, a farmers' co-operative organization.

He was also a teacher of advertising techniques at the Rochester Business Institute.

He is 34 years old and has a wife and two children, Jerry and Judith, who will join him here in a few weeks.

His first impression of Atlanta was that the belief current up north that Atlanta was as brisk, brusque and swift-moving as a northern city was greatly exaggerated.

"I was happy to find," he said, "that Atlanta people seem to get things done with a minimum of rush, bustle, hurry and nerve-strain. They seem to have time for friendliness and courtesy as they go along. I like it. It makes me begin to feel at home already."

NEGROES NOW VOTE TO SAVE DEMOCRACY

Editor Constitution: In your issue Nov. 4 the caption of an editorial was "The Negro Vote." Upon reading this article I could not help but congratulate your paper for treating this issue without bias, and in the meantime tending to acquaint the public with some of the truths about our politics.

It is not only the voice of a 12,000,000 minority group that may determine the next President of the United States, but also a group that has long ago found that the "strong-lunged" soapbox politician can no longer hide those cheap antics by which he sought to buy votes.

Hereafter, what ever bait is used to catch the Negro vote had better be good. The Negro now votes for the preservation of democracy and not for one party.

WHERE IS NECESSITY OF NUMBERED BALLOTS?

Editor Constitution: I have just cast my ballot for the 1940 presidential election, and I resent with all the vehemence at my command that I was forced to use a numbered ballot.

To my mind, this is un-American, un-democratic and infringes upon my inviolate constitutional right to a secret ballot.

I assume there must be some justification for having the numbered ballot that has to do with the protection of the ballot box and I, for one, would like to know not only what the justification is but how other states give the same protection without it.

Naval Stores Program Approved for Next Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(P)—Approval of a 1941 naval stores conservation program was announced yesterday by the Agriculture Department.

Gum naval stores (turpentine and rosin) farmers in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas may participate in the program and obtain payments ranging from 1 1/4 cents per face to five cents.

The department said the object of the program was to conserve timber resources and prevent waste. Payments may be obtained by working only the larger trees and protecting the growth of pines by accepted conservation methods.

Worst Setback Since Spring Lowers Stocks

Much of Wall Street Disappointed by F.D.R. Victory.

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER Associated Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The stock market experienced its worst setback since last spring today as trading was resumed after the Election Day recess.

Much of Wall Street, long a source of criticism of New Deal measures and methods, was frankly disappointed over the sweeping victory of President Roosevelt. At the same time, several top flight business and financial executives issued statements urging national unity and co-operation between government and business in solving important problems ahead.

While stocks declined—leading issues losing $1 to $4 a share—U. S. Government and other low-yield bonds advanced, evidently reflecting expectation of continuance of the government's cheap credit policies. More speculative corporation bonds went down along the stocks.

A flurry of activity developed in foreign bonds, but the trends were mixed, some of the German and Japanese issues declining, while Italian loans advanced.

As some leading Wall Streeters saw it, the post-election outlook was for:

1—Increasing defense activity, with expenditures for arms stepping up rapidly in coming months.

2—Drastic combing of the tax structure next year in quest of the most effective methods of boosting levies to yield billions of revenue for defense.

3—Increased aid to Britain and a rigidly unyielding attitude toward aggressor nations. The slump in stocks did not come until after a short-lived flurry of buying, concentrated on stocks and aircraft, early in the session.

8 Bandwagon States Keep Records Clear

Two Support Losing Candidate First Time in This Century.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(P)—Eight of the 10 states which have ridden the bandwagon of the winning candidate in every election in which they have participated in this century kept that record clear in Tuesday's voting, incomplete returns indicated.

Two of the 10, however, fell off the wagon. Kansas, which had gone to the winning candidate in every election since 1896, gave Wendell Willkie the biggest majority of any of the states he carried. And North Dakota, which had hit every winner since 1892, missed yesterday by apparently giving the electoral vote to Willkie.

But New York, Maryland, Ohio, Wyoming, Idaho, Missouri, New Mexico and Arizona were following their tradition of riding with the winner. New York has missed just three times since the Civil War, in 1868, in 1876 and in 1916, going each time for a native son. Maryland has not missed since 1888, Ohio since 1892, Wyoming since 1896, Idaho and Missouri since 1900, and New Mexico and Arizona since the first election in which they participated in 1912.

Italy Boasts Atlantic Subs Prey on British Shipping

ROME, Nov. 6.—(P)—The newspaper Il Popolo Di Roma said today that "some dozens" of Italian submarines, operating from an Atlantic base, are preying upon British shipping side by side with Germany's U-boats.

Without disclosing the location of the base, (it may be Brest, France), the newspaper declared Mussolini's submarines had been stationed there for some time.

Conference Postponed On Mexican Problems

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(P)—Mexican Ambassador Francisco Castillo Najera and Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles were scheduled today to begin conversations Thursday seeking settlement of outstanding Mexican-United States problems.

The State Department announced the ambassador would see Welles at 5 p. m. tomorrow. The conference previously was scheduled for today but was postponed because of the meeting of the Pan-American Union board of governors which re-elected Secretary of State Hull as chairman and named Castillo Najera as vice chairman.

Rural Voters Permitted To Ballot at City Polls

GRIFFIN, Ga., Nov. 6.—(P)—Ordinary Steve Wallace came to the rescue of Spalding county's rural voters caught by the early closing of rural boxes in the general election. He ruled the rural voters could vote in Griffin, where the boxes remained open until 6 p. m. If they were unable to cast ballots in their regular rural districts, where voting closed at 3 p. m. They had to take an oath that they had not voted at their own precinct.

Arnall Recites: Mighty Wendell Has Struck Out

Jubilation Reigns at State Capitol Over F. D. R. Victory.

By LUKE GREEN. Jubilation reigned at the state capitol yesterday as Georgia's official family received news of President Roosevelt's landslide victory with varying degrees of enthusiasm.

Perhaps none was more overjoyed at the results than Attorney General Ellis Arnall, who directed the organization of Roosevelt-Wallace clubs in Georgia. The attorney general long has been recognized as an eloquent speaker, but yesterday he established himself as a master at recitation.

Innocent Discovery. It was quite an innocent discovery, too. The time was the early morning. His office door stood ajar, and from the innermost sanctum came the voice of the attorney general powerfully proclaiming these lines:

Somewhere the sun is shining,
Somewhere children are laughing;
But there's no joy on Wall Street,
The Mighty Wendell has struck out.

The author of "Casey at the Bat" could not have put more "oomph" into its presentation than did Arnall in his paraphrased version.

Furthermore, Arnall was just about ready to quit digging through law books and take a job with Dr. George W. Gallup's Poll of Public Opinion.

Before the election the attorney general predicted that Georgia would go 85 per cent Democratic. Yesterday he pointed to early returns from the state and prided himself on the fact he had almost hit the nail on the head.

Ebbs and Flows. In other parts of the capitol joy ebbed and flowed with equal intensity. Governor Rivers' face was wreathed in smiles. He said he was too happy to be angry with anybody, including W. L. Miller, chairman of the State Highway Board, with whom he has not been on such good terms of late.

The chief executive especially was proud of the fact that Ohio appeared to be going in the Roosevelt column. He stumped Indiana and Ohio for President Roosevelt, but when he came back from his tour Monday he expressed fear Indiana might go for Willkie.

Popular Greetings. The most popular greeting in the state house yesterday was, "How did the election suit you?"

If you replied that it suited you fine, then everything was all right and you both smiled and went your merry way. If you happened to say that it didn't, then there were likely to be words, some of them not so mild.

Then there was the newsboy just outside the capitol doors who created a sensation by announcing Willkie had conceded defeat in this manner:

"Willkie—just woke up."

Wallace First Al Smith Bows Iowan To Win To Public Vote; Vice Presidency For Solidarity

State, However, Supports Republican Ticket by 50,000 Votes.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 6.—(P)—Henry Agard Wallace tonight had become the first resident Iowan in history to be elected vice president of the United States, but his home state had no part in the triumph.

While the nation yesterday was giving the Democratic Roosevelt-Wallace ticket a one-sided electoral college victory, Iowa went to the Willkie-McNary combination by 50,000 votes in the unofficial tabulations.

With nine of the state's 2,453 precincts still out, the Iowa count was:

Willkie 622,737, Roosevelt 572,655.

Meanwhile, Republican Governor George A. Wilson won a second term in the statehouse, vanquishing John K. Valentine, his Democratic opponent, by more than 65,000 votes in the unofficial returns.

The triumphant Republicans also captured at least seven of the state's nine congressional seats and elected the entire state ticket by comfortable margins.

WALLACE'S MOTHER

"NUMB" OVER OUTCOME

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 16.—(P)—Mrs. Henry C. Wallace, 73, mother of the vice president-elect of the United States, looks upon her son's latest success as "a lot of work for the youngster."

The widow of Henry C. Wallace, President Harding's secretary of agriculture, said in an interview here today that she was "numb" over yesterday's outcome at the polls.

Speculating on whether campaign speeches had not "unnecessarily sapped considerable vitality" out of the candidates, she said:

"I wonder what he's going to do to amuse himself, now that he won't have to make speeches."

Remembering that her son will preside over the United States senate during his term of office, she exclaimed:

"Oh, the poor boy."

'The People Have Spoken,' Former Governor Declares.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(P)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, who campaigned for Wendell Willkie, called upon Americans today to "line up solidly" behind President Roosevelt.

"The American people have spoken," said Smith, 1928 Democratic presidential candidate, in a post-election statement.

"The campaign is past history and should be forgotten. Every American should line up solidly behind the President in the interest of the future welfare of our country."

Georgian Converts Many for F. D. R.

Allen Fort Colley, of Grantville, Ga., was the happiest person in Andover, Mass., yesterday.

Allen is enrolled in Phillips Andover Academy there and found himself the only Roosevelt supporter at the school. He didn't like that and wrote Ellis Arnall, chairman of Roosevelt clubs in Georgia, for Democratic literature and Roosevelt-Wallace buttons.

First thing young Collier knew he had been placed in charge of Democratic headquarters at Andover. He soon had converted many to the Roosevelt ranks, he wrote his mother, Mrs. Stewart Colley, of Grantville. Roosevelt carried Massachusetts in the Tuesday election.

Colley was a first honor man at Dartington School in Rome last year.

F.D.R. Victor In DeKalb by 4-to-1 Margin

Largest Dry County Gives Prohibitionist Babson 45 Votes.

President Roosevelt carried DeKalb county by a better than four-to-one majority, according to official figures released yesterday morning by Ordinary Vess S. Morgan.

The President received 8,862 votes in the county's 26 districts and Wendell Willkie won 773 votes as a Republican and 1,302 votes as an Independent Democrat to give him a total of 2,075 votes. Roger Babson, running on the Prohibition party ticket, took only 45 votes despite the fact that DeKalb is the state's largest dry county.

Rome Expected F.D.R. To Win, Fascists Assert

of both candidates is virtually the same and is being supported by English propaganda the election is looked upon with indifference," the radio said. "This attitude explains why the Italian press did not sensationalize the presidential election."

Berlin Press Comment.

The Berlin press dealt at length with the election. Boersen Zeitung credited the Roosevelt victory in part to the New Deal's "vast propaganda possibilities" and to those benefiting from American armament orders.

Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung said Mr. Roosevelt had introduced himself to the voters as a man seeking to establish a "new order" in the United States and "a mere businessman type as represented by Willkie had little chance against that argument."

Lokalanzeiger declared the President obtained "10,000,000 votes alone from those who in their misery are relying on public support and thus were giving their vote to the New Deal."

Southeastern Europe was quick to appraise the Roosevelt victory as a smooth, more intensified armament program with uninterrupted help for Britain. That was the tenor of the Hungarian and Turkish press comment.

A Hungarian spokesman said the election would not have "much immediate influence" on the future of southeastern Europe. The response in the capitals of Yugoslavia, Rumania and Bulgaria ran along similar lines.

Turkey Well Pleased.

Turkey showed her pleasure. It was the first time that she had paid close attention to an American election. The press favored Mr. Roosevelt on the claim that he would better aid Britain—and Turkey, if Turkey is drawn into the war.

Switzerland, an isle of democracy in a totalitarian continent, voiced only unofficial approval of the election.

Egypt's young king, Farouk, sent his first chairman to United States Minister Bert Fish in Cairo and asked him to transmit sincere, royal congratulations to President Roosevelt.

Britain's response was virtually a roll call of the empire. The reelection crowded the war and domestic news from front pages in the Union of South Africa. Bermudians were jubilant, New Zealanders overjoyed.

"The great American republic has ratified before the world its resolve to let nothing stand in the way of Mr. Roosevelt's policy, which the Axis powers hate," said the Auckland Herald.

Empire Gratified.

And so it went in Britain and her empire. "We know Roosevelt better than the other candidate," was a typical comment in the London press. Another: "It would be ticklish business to change governments right now." And in the London Evening News:

"Every vote cast yesterday was a vote against Hitler. We ourselves can be thankful the campaign is ended. America will quicken her stride again and without any of the delays that might have come from the sned-

ing of a new man to the White House."

The influential London Daily Mail, paying glowing tribute to President Roosevelt on his reelection, declared "the must be named with Washington and Lincoln among the select company of really great American Presidents."

"His re-election is a heavy blow to Hitler and Mussolini," the newspaper went on. "Two of the most hated names in the Axis calendar are those of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill."

"The dictators hate these men because they fear them . . . The immediate effect of Mr. Roosevelt's return to office will be to speed up war supplies for Britain. He may examine other possibilities of assistance; we may hope that he will be able to tackle financial problems. It is the form of help for which we stand sorely in need."

The News Chronicle commented: "The re-election of Mr. Roosevelt will be heralded with joy wherever the championship of free men is held sacred."

"That he should have been chosen against the tremendous unbroken tradition opposed to a third consecutive term shows how the immense historic occasion is felt by the electors."

"Willkie might have made a very good President—perhaps he will do so in some future term."

The London Evening Star: "Germany cannot mistake its (the election's) implications. It is one of a growing number of signs that the tide is setting against tyranny and will finally engulf it."

Canadian restraint during the campaign to avoid the appearance of meddling gave way to expressions of immense relief that any possibility of United States em-

ing of a new man to the White House."

Plea for Re-burial Denied by County

Fulton county yesterday was asked to contribute $200 for re-burying a convict killed two months ago in a public works accident.

Guy Smith, attorney, told the county commissioners he represented the widow of Sam Brown, who was injured fatally when a county truck crushed him against a road bank. The county paid for his burial by a local undertaker.

"Sam Brown was buried in his convict clothes and his wife wants to have the body exhumed and given a decent funeral," Smith said. The commissioners refused to donate the $200.

County Farm Boys Sent to Milledgeville

State To Take Over Project Entirely by End of Year.

Georgia will complete taking over the county white boys' industrial farm and school by the end of this year, several months ahead of schedule. Glover Hailey, county commissioner, and Ira Dodd, superintendent, announced to the county commissioners yesterday.

The boys at the institution are being transferred in groups of five to the state industrial school at Milledgeville and all will be transferred within the next 30 days, Hailey said.

The county is to give the state some of the woodwork shop machines which it has been using at the white industrial farm recently. The county is to abandon operation of the industrial farm entirely at the end of the year. Dodd appeared before the commissioners to ask that the personnel of the farm be given first chance at other county jobs and that they be absorbed in other departments if possible.

28 Chemistry Students Are Rushed to Hospital

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 6.—(P)—Twenty-eight Roosevelt High school students were taken to Alameda county emergency hospital for observation today after inhaling chlorine fumes in the chemistry laboratory.

Three boys and three girls were kept at the hospital for further check. The remainder were released. William F. Ewing, superintendent of the school, declared the affair was "not serious."

Ewing said the ventilating system in the laboratory apparently did not function, and chlorine gas, generated during an experiment, permeated the room.

POSTAL RECEIPTS GAIN.
CORDELE, Ga., Nov. 6.—(P)—Postal receipts are ahead of last year's figures. They totaled $24,149 in the first 10 months, compared with $23,955 for the same period in 1939.

Georgia Boards Rushing Draft Number Work

State's Quota Will Be Distributed Among 149 Counties.

Local draft boards in Georgia yesterday were rushing to completion the assignment of order numbers as selective service headquarters here began the intricate mathematical problem of distributing the state's quota of 12,792 men among 149 counties.

Each draft board will receive an individual quota based upon a pro-rata share, according to total registration, and upon the credits derived from Georgia citizens already serving in the National Guard or regular military units.

The net quota—the number of men each board must furnish the Army and Navy next year—is arrived at by first distributing the state's gross quota among each local board. This gives each local board a gross quota, which is reduced by the number already serving and the number of voluntary enlistments.

Enlistments Increase.
Meanwhile, the number of voluntary enlistments in the state continued to grow and it became apparent that some counties would not be called upon to furnish any men in the first year's draft. Indeed, some counties may have a credit in excess of their quota.

Adjutant General Marion Williamson said yesterday that all men volunteering to go to the head of the order list will be inducted into the Army November 18, even though their number is in excess of the quota.

Enough volunteers will be ready to fill Georgia's first quota which will be called this month. Each local board is qualified to take voluntary enlistments and has been ordered to send the total to state headquarters for crediting against quotas.

Complete Organization.
Local boards in the Atlanta area were completing their organization and Board No. 12, in the East Point section, announced that it had selected the following men to act as "advisers to registrants": Darby T. Coker, Fred Gibbelling, Thomas M. Brindine, Joseph H. Berry and Clarence H. Buchanan.

Each board must appoint a committee of advisers who will aid registrants in filling out the complicated eight-page questionnaires that are used in determining deferments. These questionnaires will be distributed to the top five per cent of the men on each order list some time next week.

General Williamson yesterday announced that William A. Cetti, vice president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, had been selected as field representative of the state selective service department.

Cetti will serve as liaison officer, co-ordinating the work of local draft boards and organized labor. He resigned his post as an officer in the federation.

He served with the 118th artillery during the World War and is a member of Gate City Post 72 of the American Legion.

"Solid South" Stands Firmly For Roosevelt and the Party

Willkie's Showing Is Slightly Better Than Landon's in 1936; President's Popular Vote Is 2,856,581 to 815,619 for Republican.

Southern Democrats hailed successful defense of the solid south's 224 electoral votes last night, but backers of Wendell Willkie took some comfort as their man's total pushed far past the 1936 Republican mark.

Slowly accumulating returns from yesterday's presidential showdown placed each of the 11 "solid" states in the President's list by at least 2 to 1, but with an estimated 10 to 20 per cent of the votes unreported, Willkie's count was nearly 50,000 ahead of Alfred M. Landon's 1936 total of 767,000.

Unofficial tabulations from 13-231 precincts of 18,206 in 10 states and 230 of 254 counties in Texas gave Roosevelt 2,856,581, Willkie 815,619.

This section-wide majority of slightly less than 3.5 to 1 for Roosevelt compared with a margin of about 4.4 to 1 for the President four years ago, when he polled 3,368,000 to Landon's 767,000.

The Republican candidate made his midwest gain in total votes in Tennessee, Texas, Florida and South Carolina where still incomplete reports gave him counts well above Landon's totals.

Democratic statehouse and congressional candidates were swept into office along with the President. A sole exception was Representative Joseph W. Byrns Jr., of Tennessee, son of the late speaker of the house.

Byrns was defeated by an Independent, J. Percy Priest, Nashville newspaperman, who based his campaign on attacks against Byrns record on defense measures, particularly his vote for a delay in conscription.

The "solid" states giving incomplete 1940 count for Roosevelt and Willkie and the 1936 totals for Roosevelt and Landon:

Georgia's Vote For Roosevelt Near s Record

F. D. R.'s Total Is 246,900; Willkie Gets 41,631 Ballots.

Georgia's popular vote for President Roosevelt in Tuesday's general election rolled on toward a record-breaking total yesterday as returns from 1,501 of the state's 1,720 precincts gave Roosevelt 246,900 votes as against 41,631 for Wendell L. Willkie.

With 219 precincts still missing, it was held possible the President might exceed his 1936 popular vote of 255,364. Alfred M. Landon, the Republican candidate in 1936, polled 36,942 votes.

Total Vote Larger.

Although the combined Republican and Willkie-vote was well ahead of the Republican total four years ago, the total state vote was expected to be much larger this year than in 1936 because of the intense interest in the presidential campaign.

Democratic leaders were well satisfied with the vote Georgia gave their torchbearer. Attorney General Ellis Arnall, director of the Roosevelt-Wallace Clubs in this state, dispatched a telegram of congratulation to the President, inviting him to come to Georgia and rest.

"Your masterful speeches did the work," Arnall told the President in his telegram.

Harry Somers, state director of the Willkie-for-President Clubs, said the election vote "was very surprising, especially in the south," but pleaded for unity by adding:

"Regardless of what our politics may have been in the campaign, it behooves every good American to pull his oar in the boat for the good of the common cause."

Dry Candidate's Statement.

J. L. R. Boyd, defeated Prohibition candidate for governor of Georgia, said "the American people will never straighten out their tangled affairs and balance any state budgets as long as they consume $11,000,000 of alcohol every day." He reported the Prohibition candidate had spent no more than $1,000 in the Georgia election.

As Georgians waited for a final tabulation of votes, it was pointed out that Governor-elect Eugene Talmadge might receive more votes than President Roosevelt, since Talmadge's name appeared on both the straight Democratic and the Independent-Democratic tickets.

In the race for the 16th state senatorial seat in the 1941 legislature, J. H. Rowland, of Wrightsville, a staunch Talmadge adherent, polled 5,914 votes to 2,182 for J. E. Hall, of Soperton, according to unofficial returns.

Hall is a business associate of Jim L. Gillis, former chairman of the state Democratic executive committee.

Written-In Ballots.

Johnson county gave Rowland 2,670 votes; Laurens, 2,814, and Emanuel, 430. Hall polled 1,154 votes in Treutlen county, 1,024 in Emanuel and one vote in Johnson county.

The votes for Hall in Johnson and Laurens counties were written-in ballots because the ticket listed only Rowland. In the other two counties, Emanuel and Treutlen, the situation was reversed, with only Hall listed.

The election brought to a close the third phase of this contest. After the district committee heard it, Hall appealed to the state Democratic convention at Macon October 2. A committee of the convention rejected his appeal on the grounds his home county of Treutlen could not elect a senator this year under the rotation system.

Decatur Firemen Will Repair Toys

Decatur's fire department announced yesterday that it was issuing its annual call for old and broken toys that can be repaired for distribution to poor children in the community.

The toys will be collected through the Harold Byrd Post, American Legion, and persons wishing to contribute items to the fund are asked to call the city hall, Dearborn 3311.

Last year firemen repaired and distributed more than 100 toys. They are given to poor children on Christmas morning, after firemen have mended and painted them.

'Birth of a Nation' At Three Theaters

"The Birth of a Nation," the first great spectacle film and the only motion picture to be mentioned in the same breath with "G. W. T. W." since December, 1939, will be shown simultaneously at three theaters, the Decatur, Little Five Points and the East Point, today and tomorrow.

A sound track has been added and a 100-man orchestra directed by Louis Gottschalk, who also did the music when the film was first released, provides music for the reissue. There is a sequence where Lincoln talks, superbly done by Walter Huston. Chief benefits of reviving "The Birth of a Nation" are: It furnishes the movie enthusiasts a chance to compare this silent picture with the most recent epic story of the war and reconstruction period, "G. W. T. W." It is a great preachment against war, and it provides a generation who never saw this fine old epic a chance to see it.

'Skylark' Opens Here Tomorrow

Gertrude Lawrence and her company will present "Skylark" at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night in the Erlanger theater.

Other performances will be given at 2:30 and 8:30 o'clock Saturday.

In the cast with Miss Lawrence are Glenn Anders and John Emery, both of whom have appeared on the Erlanger stage during the past two years.

Silas Green Shows Will Play Tonight

The Silas Green Shows, known as "Silas Green from New Orleans," will play at 8:15 o'clock tonight in the city auditorium. Proceeds will go to the Negro Boys' Club.

The Green show is one of the oldest musical comedy units on tour and it manages to incorporate some educational features in the program.

Wide Variety Of Film Types Will Open Here

Musical Comedy, Dashing Tale of Old California Billed.

By LEE ROGERS, Motion Picture Editor.
Films scheduled to make their initial appearance in Peachtree street's theaters today offer a variety of film types from which Atlanta can choose.

"Too Many Girls" is a musical comedy starring Lucille Ball and Ann Miller with Frances Langford and Richard Carlson at the Paramount.

The Fox opens this afternoon with "The Mark of Zorro," in which Tyrone Power is the chief heart interest. "Angel Over Broadway" will star Rita Hayworth and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. at the Rialto, opening tomorrow. "City for Conquest" has been moved to the Capitol for three more days and Charlie Chaplin's "The Great Dictator" continues at Loew's, still at advanced prices.

Paramount.

"Too Many Girls," the movie adaptation of the stage hit of the same name, opens today at the Paramount theater starring Lucille Ball, Ann Miller, Frances Langford, Richard Carlson and directed by George Abbott, director of the dancing girls.

The picture is a screwy satire on college and football. The scene is a little New Mexico college where the girls outnumber the boys 10 to 1—and do the boys have a good time! The college football team hasn't won a game since 1916, but things happen in a hurry when four eastern all-Americans arrive following a millionaire beauty, played by Lucille Ball.

This is a musical production with Miss Langford singing some catchy new tunes, and Miss Miller dancing like you've never seen her before. The congo comes in for special attention.

Fox.

Tyrone Power, who runs a race with handsome Robert Taylor for first place in the hearts of film-going feminine America, is cast in what is said to be his most dashing role in "The Mark of Zorro," which opens today at the Fox theater.

Linda Darnall has the romantic feminine lead and Basil Rathbone can be expected to do a good job as the villain. Others in a large cast are Gale Sondergaard, Eugene Paulette, a monk, Edward Bromberg, Montagu Love, Janet Beecher, Robert Lowery and Chrispin Martin.

Power's role is declared as that of the "Robin Hood of Old California," in which he steals from the rich and gives to the poor.

Rialto.

The story behind the making of "Angels Over Broadway," which starts an engagement at the Rialto theater tomorrow, is of unusual interest.

Ben Hecht, famous writer of modernistic novels and also a producer with no few successes to his credit, wanted to make a picture for which he would be solely responsible.

Hecht wrote the story for "Angels Over Broadway," produced it with an entirely free hand, directed and, even, in one small character bit, acted in the picture. He found a sympathetic collaborator in Doug Fairbanks Jr., who is the co-star with Rita Hayworth. Fairbanks is also listed on the advertising as associate producer, and Hecht has stated that the assistance provided by Fairbanks was invaluable.

"Angels Over Broadway" is a story of one night in the heart of New York's amusement area. The characters include a girl "from nowhere," a youth who thinks he can make money by sharp trickery and who has never done an honest day's work in his life, a dramatist who has turned to drink when his latest plays have flopped, and a meek little clerk planning suicide because he has embezzled $3,000 from his firm and discovery is imminent. The cast includes Thomas Mitchell, John Qualen, George Watts and Constance Worth.

Loew's.

Charlie Chaplin's first picture since "Modern Times" back at the beginning of the thirties, "The Great Dictator," has been held over at Loew's Grand for a second week.

The film is a combination satire on and slapstick fun poked at the dictators of the world. In the cast are Jack Oakie and Paulette Goddard.

Roxy.

Tommy Tucker brings his orchestra to the Roxy theater for one week's engagement, starting Sunday.

Tommy assembled his versatile crew of musicians and artists after leaving college, where he made a record for others to shoot

It is a matter of record that since his first dance engagement there has been only one change in personnel, with the maestro's amazing showmanship qualities bringing out the abilities of his players so that there is hardly any need for reinforcements.

There will be the usual screen attraction also.

Cameo.

Bob Steele, most picturesque and popular of western stars, once again demonstrates his ability to hold an audience fairly breathless with excitement, when he appears as the star in his latest production, "Billy, the Kid, in Texas," which will run tomorrow and Saturday at the Cameo theater. It is a first-run showing in Atlanta.

Capitol.

"City for Conquest," the dynamic film about love in a big city which made such a hit with large audiences at the Fox theater during the past week, has been held over and is being moved to the Capitol theater today for three days more.

The film stars James Cagney and Ann Sheridan, and tells the story of two people in love who are determined to climb out of New York's slums and make a success of their lives. But they discover that success is only to be had by sacrificing everything they set their hearts on. It is a story as powerful and wild as the city itself.

In the supporting cast are such screen favorites as Frank Craven, Donald Crisp, Frank McHugh and a newcomer to the screen right from the Broadway stage, Arthur Kennedy.

Rhodes.

"Third Finger, Left Hand," starring Myrna Loy and Melvyn Douglas, will be held over at the Rhodes theater for one more week, starting today.

The comedy provides Miss Loy with a rampaging wife role and gives Douglas as many hilarious troubles as William Powell had in "I Love You Again." Miss Loy, a fictitious husband for business reasons, and Douglas, a landscape painter, arrives on the scene posing as the mythical spouse. She can't expose her deception, so takes it out by plunging the debonaire Douglas into every comical trouble she can think of, even embarrassing him by scandalizing his home-town folks with assumed vulgarity on their honeymoon.

Urges Elimination Of Electoral Vote

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Republican, Massachusetts, announced tonight that as soon as Congress reconvenes he would introduce a constitutional amendment eliminating the electoral college and requiring that presidential elections be determined by the vote of the people.

"The electoral college is a relic of the past, which serves no useful purpose," Lodge said. "It makes it possible for a candidate with the popular vote to be defeated. In this, as in every other elective contest, let the people rule."

Britons Report They Saw Vision of Victory in Sky

LEWES, Sussex, Eng., Nov. 6.—(UP)—A shepherd named Fowler rushed to his home village of Friele tonight and told excitedly of having seen a vision in the sky while he was tending his flock.

He said he saw a white line draw slowly across the sky, and then a nebulous likeness of Christ crucified on the cross, as well as six angels with long white wings. One of them was playing a harp. Nine persons in the village professed to have seen the same thing. Most of the villagers took the vision as a sign of British victory.

Hopson Trial On Mail Fraud Charges Opens

Ex-Utilities Magnate Protests Removal From Sanitarium.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Moaning in protest, Howard C. Hopson, ex-utilities magnate, went from a sanitarium to federal court today to face mail fraud charges arising from his rule of the now-bankrupt Associated Gas and Electric system, the billion-dollar holding company he built in boom days.

The court appearance of the pudgy, bald financier marked another episode in a legal battle dating back to Ferdinand Pecora's stock market investigation in 1933. It has been highlighted in recent months by Hopson's repeated attempts to establish that he was mentally incompetent to stand trial.

After his indictment last May on charges of illicitly "milking" his utility empire of $20,000,000 profits, Hopson's lawyers said that he had the delusion he was about to "explode."

He spent 10 days in the Bellevue hospital psychiatric ward, and has been residing since at the Neurological Institute.

As the jury was chosen Hopson bowed his head and gave vent to repeated groans. The jury of business men and one housewife, was quickly chosen.

Voter Uses Mail Stamp, Ballot Declared Spoiled

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 6.—(AP)—One Shreveport voter, who took literally the "stamp the rooster" advice given Democrats wishing to vote a straight party ticket, lost his vote in yesterday's general election.

Election Commissioner C. C. Schober Sr. found one ballot bearing a one and one-half cent stamp in the circle at the top of the column in which voters "stamp" and "X."

The ballot was counted spoiled.

Marietta Joins 'Miss Mattie' Lyon, Mrs. Heggie As Girlhood Friends Celebrate 90th Birthdays

Guests of Honor Wear Beautiful Frocks for Great Occasion.

By CAROLYN MCKENZIE.
MARIETTA, Ga., Nov. 6.—Marietta's "first citizen" and one of her "first" friends celebrated their 90th birthdays here today as all of Marietta, city officials, lawyers, school workers, doctors, clubwomen, visited with "Miss Mattie," Mrs. Mattie Harris Lyon, and her friend from childhood, Mrs. Idelle Heggie.

These friends are probably the oldest and the most cherished members of Marietta's citizenry. They have interesting tales to tell—tales no one else can extract from experience. Both eyewitnesses of the Civil War, they tell of the times whom they refuted. Miss Mattie stayed in Cobb county long enough to see Sherman ride through, and she probably the only person in this section who holds more than a reader's image of the famed Yankee leader.

Wear Beautiful Frocks.

But Miss Mattie and Mrs. Idelle put aside their memories and, in the present, visiting with old friends and accepting best wishes from all of Cobb county. They were dressed in their most beautiful frocks for this occasion. Both had a perfect coiffure, and they were virtually surrounded with orchid corsages and nosegays. Around them were more chrysanthemums than one could count, each one blending from deep gold to pale yellow.

Now these two women joined the Methodist church at the same time when they were girls, 73 years ago. They were received into the

50 Salaries Raised After F.D.R. Wins

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Walter J. Black, publishing house president, said today that as a result of the President's re-election, he would give a 10 per cent salary increase to each of his 50 employees.

"I'm sick and tired of the way business men talk and act about Franklin Roosevelt when most of them have thrived under him just as I have," he said.

Flames Ravage An Entire Block

BRADDOCK, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP)—A spectacular fire driven by high winds leveled an entire block of buildings today in this Pittsburgh industrial suburb named for the British general in the Revolutionary War.

Six of the 10 structures destroyed were homes, leaving their occupants temporarily without shelter. The others were a three-story fraternal hall, two business buildings and a 15-car garage where the fire started.

Three firemen and one citizen volunteer were injured. Spectators at first feared several firemen had been trapped in the blazing fraternal hall, but officials later reported all were safe.

Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr estimated damage at several hundred thousand dollars.

Chinese Winner To Send Coat to Mrs. Roosevelt

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 6.—The Chinese winner of a silver fox coat in a drawing today at a party celebrating the re-election of President Roosevelt announced that he would send the prize to Mrs. Roosevelt in salute to her aid to Chinese civilian war victims and to the victory of her husband. The coat will be sent by plane to Hongkong, there to be transhipped to the Clipper.

The party was in honor of United States Ambassador Nelson Johnson.

Chauffeur for Perkins Fined $10 in Maine

BATH, Maine, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A $10 fine and costs was imposed in municipal court today on William J. Delaney, Arlington, Va., chauffeur for Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, after he pleaded guilty, through counsel, of passing an automobile on a hill at Woolwich shortly before the Perkins car and another collided Friday night.

90-YEAR-OLD FRIENDS CELEBRATE—Mrs. Idelle Heggie (left), whose birthday falls on the 19th of this month, joined her lifelong friend, "Marietta's first citizen," Mrs. Mattie Harris Lyon, yesterday to celebrate their 90th anniversaries. All of Marietta came by to extend best wishes to these Cobb county citizens.

church at the same time, and have worked together in the organization ever since. They went to the same school, in the same room, for a few years, but Miss Mattie's health prevented her attending school extensively. As young girls, they went to dances and parties in the same crowd.

Cling to Friendship. Now they're the only members of their group left and they cling to their friendship with both hands. Neither of them can walk very well today, and they have to rely upon their friends to take them around, but they frequently exchange love letters, as they put it.

Miss Mattie only recently received an honor which she prizes very much. She was named the only honorary member of the Marietta Golf Club. Since 1912, she has headed the Marietta Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy; and since 1917, she has served as president of the Confederate Memorial association. She became honorary president of the Woman's club in 1939, honorary president of the Georgia division of the U. D. C. in 1935, and an honorary member of the Flower Garden Club. She was honorary president of the W. M. S., now the Woman's Society of Christian Service, of the Methodist church from 1925 to 1940. She also has given 50 years of service to the W. C. T. U.

At the "open house" held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Fowler, Miss Mattie's stepdaughter, Miss Idelle wore a black chiffon velvet dress. Miss Mattie wore soft, black crepe with a family cameo at the neck. The 113-year-old pin was given to Miss Mattie's mother on her 18th birthday. Now Miss Mattie wore it on her 90th anniversary.

Miss Mattie and Miss Idelle probably will take weeks to recuperate from their strenuous afternoon; but no two belles at any party had a better time than they had here today. They chatted together when the guests were visiting among themselves; and then they had the opportunity to see all their old friends—all of Marietta—and to receive the best wishes of Cobb county on their birthdays.

Hawaii Votes For Statehood In Plebiscite

Republicans Elect 11 of 12 Territorial House Members.

HONOLULU, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Hawaiian islands, with their polyglot population, have expressed their desire for statehood.

With complete, unofficial returns from all precincts except the island of Hawaii, yesterday's plebiscite gave 39,413 in favor of statehood and 19,911 against. There were 83,312 registered voters in the territorial population of 412,000.

Samuel W. King, territorial delegate to Washington, said he was "deeply gratified."

Next step on the long road to fulfillment of this wish will be a resolution from the Hawaiian legislature petitioning congress for statehood.

Republicans elected eleven of the twelve territorial house members and two of the three senate members. One of the senators elected was Sanji Abe, a Republican and deputy sheriff, who only last Saturday had received notice from Tokyo of his expatriation. During the campaign objection had been raised to his dual citizenship.

The islands also felt the surge of Democratic strength when complete unofficial returns placed Lester Petrie, Democrat, in the mayor's chair in Honolulu. The office had been held by a Republican, Charles S. Crane.

Rival Parties Claim Puerto Rican Victory

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Both the Coalition and Popular parties claimed a legislative majority today based on reports to party headquarters of the voting in yesterday's election.

Official reports still were lacking, however, from 26 of the 77 municipalities, including San Juan and other key cities. The election supervisor blamed this state of affairs on the failure of 50,000 election officials to follow instructions.

Plane Seat Denied To Doris Cromwell

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Doris Duke Cromwell's millions were of no avail to her today in trying to get a seat on the China clipper to Honolulu.

Pan-American Airways has a first-come-first served policy and, when it became necessary to lighten the plane's load so it could carry more gasoline, Mrs. Cromwell and four other persons found their passages cancelled.

The China clipper took aboard additional fuel because of bad weather in the Pacific. It also sailed four hours ahead of schedule.

Mrs. Cromwell arrived by plane from New York yesterday, intending to fly to Hawaii. Her husband, James H. R. Cromwell, was defeated in the New Jersey race for United States senator.

STEALS CASH REGISTER. Alvis B. Minor, service station operator in Los Angeles, recently bought a $225 cash register. On the top of it he placed a sign reading: "You Can't Take It With You." Several days later he reported to police that burglars had taken the register along with $3 in it, but had left the sign.

Did you buy YOUR car on "Millinery"?

You hear it said often nowadays that it's millinery that sells automobiles.

All right—let's put it up to one who knows. Did you buy your car on nick-nacks, trick devices, novelties?

We don't think so.

We believe that while considering style, and room, and comfort—you really picked your car on what it would do on the road!

Now, we take our hats off to no car for being smarter-looking than Buick. We'll match our product against any for room, for appointments, for fine finish, for the comfort of its all-coil springing and the safety of its Body by Fisher.

But beyond all that, we challenge the whole field to equal Buick on its downright all-round performance ability.

On its power—on its pull—on its pick-up—on its easy handling (including freedom from shifting)—yes, and on its thrift.

Nowhere will you find a car that does so much so well and so frugally—and we invite you to find that out for yourself.

You'll find novelties in the new

Buicks of course, but they're not the chief attraction. Instead you'll see the two big basic engineering developments of the year—FIREBALL design and Compound Carburetion.

They give you an automobile that packs a real thrill—and if that means more to you than superficialities, better come in and learn more about it.

Presbyterians Increase Gifts To Charities

Gain of 5.19 Per Cent Is Recorded for First Seven Months.

Contributions to benevolent causes of the Presbyterian Church, United States, for the first seven months of the church's current fiscal year are 5.19 per cent ahead of the preceding year, it was announced at the annual meeting of synods' leaders of stewardship and finance yesterday at the Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur. Another session will be held today.

Dr. B. K. Tenney, Atlanta, secretary of the assembly's committee on stewardship and finance, who is in charge of the two-day discussion on principles and methods of stewardship and church finances, pointed out also that contributions for October, 1940, exceeded those for October, 1939, by $10,037.25.

Contributions for the first seven months of the current fiscal year, he said, exceeded those of the corresponding part of last year by $19,893.73. Total contributions through October amount to $403,520.24. The budget goal for the year is set at $1,450,000 but the receipts are always much heavier during the last half of each fiscal year.

Cordele Replaces Its City Manager

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

CORDELE, Ga., Nov. 6.—John R. Brown, city manager of Cordele since September, 1930, was replaced last night by the city commission, which named G. B. Wilkes, former postmaster, as his successor. Mr. Wilkes was immediately sworn in and assumed his duties.

Mr. Brown had been connected with the city 16 years, serving six years as clerk, which office he assumed September 1, 1924. During his tenure, a $250,000 city school plant was erected, and approximately six miles of new paving was laid, besides about five miles of concrete sidewalks and three miles of new water extensions. Approximately six miles of new streets and avenues were opened up. In addition there were numerous other improvements.

Mr. Brown is chairman of the Crisp county selective draft board.

Vivien Leigh to Leave Hollywood

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6.—Vivien Leigh wants to go back with Laurence Olivier to England, but he says "No." It is better that she remains in this country. Olivier joins the RAF at the finish of their current flicker. Vivien, will probably do a play in New York. "At any rate, I shall definitely leave Hollywood. I couldn't stay here without Larry," says Vivien. She is not overfond of the famed southern California climate. "I haven't felt well since I've been here." Hedy Lamarr is another who dislikes our tepid weather. Me too. But I remember the time I felt the same way about a New York winter. . . . Do we ever know when we are well off?

Merle Oberon, a vision of loveliness, comes on to the set of "Lady Hamilton" just before noon, and says to Husband Alexander Korda, "Darling, can we have lunch today?"

"Sorry, darling," says Korda, "but I have an appointment with Julien Duvivier."

"That won't take all lunch, will it?" demands Merle.

"I'm afraid it will," replies Korda.

"How about seeing you after lunch, darling?" continues Merle. "I'm making a picture, darling," her husband reminds her. And Merle has to wait for whatever she wanted to discuss with Korda. It sounded important from the urgency in her voice.

Marlene Dietrich did not go to New Orleans after all, much to the disappointment of her fans there. It seems that she promised to go one day—and changed her mind the next. No one, except Marlene, knows why. There is some talk of Marlene's getting a cut of the profits from her next film at Universal, "The Countess of New Orleans." She received $50,000 for "Destiny" and $75,000 for "Seven Sinners," which is still a long way from her former $250,000 a picture, but not at all bad for a girl who was supposed to be through at the box office two years ago.

Nigel Bruce's daughter, Pauline, is testing for one of the 12 super-lovely Ziegfeld girls. Pauline is 17, brunet, and a real beauty.

Anatole Litvak is showing his intimates the expensive gold mesh cigarette case, lovingly inscribed, and the gift of a well-known film actress, whose divorce from her better-known husband will soon be a headline. According to Litvak, he loves the lady and she loves him. So I suppose they will marry when she is free. But it might be more tactful at this stage of their romance. Mr. Litvak were less vocal about his affection.

Sight of the week. . . . Mrs. William Powell having her hair done at Ann Meredith's. But all eyes are focused on her magnificent new bracelet, a chain of gold horns and diamonds on one horn.

A cluster of diamonds surround a tiny watch on another; her initials glitter via large diamonds. It would be interesting to add up how much Powell has spent on his little bride since their marriage. (I'm not sure I can count that high) but she is beginning to be worth her weight in gold—and diamonds. Bill, by the way, is getting plump and has joined the Terry Hunt reducing class.

This might interest Olivia de Havilland. I heard an executive at Warners says she would get bigger and better roles at the studio if she changed the "preciseness" of her speech. I pass this on to you, Olivia—for whatever it's worth.

Edward G. Robinson was accosted in the street by a boy of about 12, who suggested they become partners on a business deal. "I'd want 500 signed photographs of you," he told Robinson. "I can sell 'em for 5 cents each. I'll give you 1 cent on every picture sold." P. S. No deal.

Casually correct and smart for work and luncheon dates is this miracle wool jersey. Banded together for style, the blouse takes a trio of the season's smartest colors. The fitted blouse eases into a discreet flare in the skirt.

MY DAY: Election Excitement Is Natural

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK.—This is election day and I have been told with great firmness to get my column in early because the telegraph wires into New York City will soon be busy with election news. Of course, nothing authentic in the way of election returns can come in until the late afternoon, but I suppose newspaper correspondents will be filing stories all during the day about minor happenings here and there.

Yesterday was calm and peaceful. I met my husband in the morning and rode for a while through the woods and the fields and enjoyed the blue sky and the warm sun. Then we had the picnic I told you about.

We all went with the President in the evening to the meeting outside of the Nelson House in Poughkeepsie, and then returned to listen to the two hours of the Democratic broadcast. I found that the President, instead of closing the program, came somewhere in the middle of it. I like the whole program. Then we listened through the Republican hour which followed, and so went rather late to bed, for I still had mail to finish on my desk.

In spite of being busy, the atmosphere was calm, but today it is not going to be quite so calm. I am taking my ride, but at noon my husband and I, with his mother, will go up to vote and all the photographers and newspapermen will be on hand to record the process as they have done so often before. I shall feel quite calm, but no one thinks that you should be calm, so, willy-nilly, you find yourself being urged into excitement.

The telephones will ring and people will be rising from the table during meals to answer them. The President will have to talk to many people and in spite of all one can do, election excitement will mount. By the time returns are really coming in, very few of us will be left who are capable of comparing past votes with present figures and making any evaluation of what is really going on.

I remember what it was like the first time my husband ran for the New York state senate. We had no radio and no news service in the house then, and if I remember rightly it was 32 years since a Democratic state senator had gone from this district to Albany. The campaign had been an intensive one, and I doubt very much if he has ever worked harder since. I wanted him to win just because he was running, and because I felt he might do something of value for the district.

From then on there have been campaigns for various offices. Some were lost and some were won, but I think my feelings have always been much as they were the first time. I think I can say with honesty: "May what is best for the country happen today, and may we all remember that whatever happens, this is just the beginning of some years of useful work."

THE WOMAN'S QUIZ

Q. If one receives an invitation to a church wedding, but not to the reception, and is not a particular friend of either the bride or the groom, is it necessary to send a gift?

A. An invitation to a wedding does not impose any obligation to send a gift. What really influences wedding gifts is affection, friendship, relationship, or business affiliations with the families of the bride or groom.

Q. How can I tell whether the wedding on furniture is high grade or an inferior quality?

A. High-grade wedding has a red stripe along each edge; inferior grades have blue or black stripes.

Q. How much honor strength must a responding hand contain to bid one no trump over partner's bid of one in a suit?

A. At least one and a half honor tricks.

Ear Plugs Aid Workers' Efficiency

By Dr. William Brady.

Physiologically noise slows peristaltic activity and decreases the flow of saliva and gastric juice—hence impairs or retards digestion.

The use of ear protectors in a weaving establishment increased efficiency 7.5 per cent.

In a packing room the output increased 12 per cent after a noisy ventilating fan was turned off, despite the resulting decreased ventilation.

People grow accustomed to the noise of traffic—subway, elevated, railway, automobile and are hardly conscious of it, but extraneous or new noises produce more or less emotional response. Rattling, squeaking, intermittent or erratic noises are annoying out of all proportion to their intensity.

A pernicious source of noise is the automobile horn blast. Considering the amount of noise made by reckless or unskilled drivers—who herald their approach by blasts of the horn instead of keeping the car under control and ready to avoid collision at the corner—and by dimwits who use the horn to summon people or just to call attention to themselves—it is remarkable that many drivers of ordinary skill and intelligence scarcely know whether the horn works unless they happen to blow it accidentally.

It is not only the intensity level of the automobile horn blast, which may reach 102 decibels at a distance of 23 feet, and that is some noise, but the presence of inharmonious overtones that make horn blowing so annoying.

Ordinances against unnecessary blowing of the automobile horn are not often enforced. There should be a courageous enforcement of such ordinances, especially against the reckless drivers who rely on the horn to blast the way for them to speed past corners, regardless of the rights, comfort or safety of other drivers. Such a lesson to the halfwit would have a wholesome effect on the sum of unnecessary noises that compose this serious nuisance of modern civilian life.

Cotton plugs in the ears reduce noise intensity about 10 decibels. Specially devised protectors reduce air-borne sound from 25 to 30 decibels. Rubber stoppers reduce noise 25 to 30 decibels, and a special defender described by V. O. Knudsen in National Safety News, February, 1939, reduced the noise intensity from 45 to 50 decibels.

Persons using cotton plugs in the ears to shut out excessive or disturbing noise should use crude cotton, not absorbent cotton, or if only absorbent cotton is at hand dip the plug lightly in olive oil before inserting it in the ear.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

What, No Answer?

Correspondents who expect a reply by mail should not forget to inclose a stamped 3c and properly addressed envelope. "City" is not sufficient. Loose stamps are not sufficient.

Varicose Veins and Ulcers.

Is it possible to have a varicose ulcer on the leg if one has never had varicose veins? What treatment do you recommend? I have had an ulcer for six years, and one doctor said it was a varicose ulcer. (M. L. S.)

Answer—The varicose (dilated, enlarged, swollen) vein may not have been noticeable. Of course, leg ulcer may be due to other causes. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for pamphlet "Varicose Veins and Varicose Ulcers."

Raw Meat.

Please advise whether raw hamburger or ground beef is harmful to the system. (B. W. R.)

Answer—Not if you're sure it is free from (1) tuberculosis, (2) botulism and (3) tapeworm larvae. It is always better to cook meat thoroughly, particularly pork.

A Bolero Frock for the Small Girl

By Lillian Mae.

"Small fry" love to wear bolero-dresses to school and play—they're so pert and jaunty. And mothers like them for the extra warmth they give a youngster on wintry days. This gay bolero style, pattern 4515 by Lillian Mae, is full of original, gay touches, yet as simple as ABC to sew up at home. The buoyantly flaring skirt is panelled all 'round with the two front panels "upped" for a high waistline. The cute rounded collar looks well trimmed with a self-fabric or ribbon bow; buttons and ric-rac add colorful touches. Notice the nicely cut lines of the perky short-sleeved bolero. For a three-piece effect, make the whole upper part of the frock in lively contrast to the skirt and bolero.

Pattern 4515 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, bolero and skirt, takes 1 1/4 yards 36-inch fabric; blouse, 3/4 yard contrast.

Send 15 cents (15c) in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Attractive Nashville Belle To Attend Debut Ball Here

ONE OF THE MOST attractive visitors coming to Atlanta to attend Martha Merrill's debut party tomorrow evening is lovely Anne Huddleston, of Nashville, Tenn., who arrives today to visit her aunt, Mrs. Foster Hume, on Habersham road. Anne is no stranger to Atlanta, for she has visited here before, and even as a sub-deb she sent the stag line into immediate action for dates.

Since that time she has graduated from Sweet Briar, traveled extensively in Europe, and made her debut in both Nashville and Louisville, Ky. The party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Huddleston, to introduce their daughter to society last winter was one of the most brilliant of the Nashville season. Anne was also presented to Louisville society with her close friends, Grace Hill, popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Hill.

A striking brunette, Anne is slender and graceful of figure, and is as pretty as she is popular. Her visit will be marked by numerous parties planned in her honor.

HERE IS the Memphis Commercial Appeal's story of how the romance of Lintie Montedonico and Linton Young came about. Their marriage, you know, takes place in Memphis on Saturday, and Linton will bring his lovely bride to Atlanta for residence.

"Quoting Mrs. J. V. Montedonico, mother of Lintie . . .

"When we asked Linton to take care of Lintie for a couple of hours, we didn't dream he would take on the job for life!"

"You see, Linton's brother and Lintie's sister (David Young and Marilise Montedonico) were married several years ago, and he went to Memphis to be best man for his brother. But Lintie was away at school at Holton Arms at the time of the wedding, and so the young couple didn't meet."

"Instead, Cupid had planned one of his very special types of meetings . . . somewhat on the order of a blind date. Last fall, Lintie was en route to Chapel Hill to attend the dances at the University of North Carolina. The train schedule called for a two-hour wait in Atlanta."

"So David Young wrote his brother, Linton, and asked him to take care of his young sister-in-law during the few hours between trains."

"Linton did! It was really love at first sight, they report."

ONE OF the most unusual affairs planned in compliment to a bride-elect is the "make-believe honeymoon" party at which Mrs. A. R. Johnson and Mrs. G. G. Barrett will be co-hostesses today honoring lovely Betty Aycock.

The clever invitations read as follows: "Suitcases are packed and the stage is set for a honeymoon party, but you'll not get wet. Just bring your own raindrops, either rice or old shoes, but be sure they're things Betty Aycock can use."

Gracing the bridge tables will be miniature bellhops holding tiny suitcases containing nuts and mints, while the tables will be in the form of railroad tickets bearing track numbers to match those labeling the tables. Further carrying out the selected motif will be ice cream molded in the shape of trains and cakes entitled "Honeymoon Special."

A feature of the affair will be the presentation of the gifts by Suzanne Smith, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Smith, who will be costumed as a bride, complete even to a white satin dress and tulle veil. She will carry the gifts in a cellophane suitcase graced with a large white satin bow.

Mrs. Sol O. Klotz, president of Atlanta Senior Hadassah, who returned recently from the 26th annual Hadassah convention at Cincinnati, Ohio, and who will address the congregation of the Ahavath Achim synagogue on Hadassah Sabbath, which will be held on Friday evening.

ATLANTANS will have a rare opportunity to see real dramatic talent on Tuesday when they attend the reading of "The Cradle Song" to be presented by St. Elizabeth's Chapter of St. Philip's cathedral.

The reading will be held at the Rumson road residence of Mrs. Frederick Matthews, and will feature as guest artist Mrs. Charles Stevens.

Mrs. Stevens, who has appeared in several productions on the New York stage, is a graduate of the American Academy of Dramatic Art and the Washington University School of Oratory in St. Louis, Mo. The play which she will present was given in New York by Eva LaGallienne, noted star of the theater.

The St. Elizabeth Chapter of the cathedral is frequently called the Bride's Chapter, as it is comprised of enthusiastic young matrons, who organized the circle not quite a year ago. Tuesday's reading will be the new chapter's first undertaking. Mrs. William M. Brooks is the efficient chairman.

1940 Matrons' Club.

Miss Smith Becomes Bride Of William Maxwell Liggins

St. Philip's cathedral was the scene yesterday afternoon of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Anne Smith, daughter of Mrs. Alonzo Melvin Smith, and William Maxwell Liggins.

Dean Raimundo de Ovijs, assisted by Dr. Ryland Knight, performed the ceremony in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends, and presenting a program of nuptial music was Thomas Brumby, church organist.

The altar was banked with palms interspersed with tall baskets of white chrysanthemums and cathedral candelabra holding lighted white tapers.

Entering first were the ushers, Tyler M. Bullock, Clifford Hendrix and William F. Trenary Jr., of Macon. The groomsmen were Charles E. Williams, of Savannah; Richard Burch, Joseph Keeney and Albert H. Seaman Jr.

Miss Frances Melvin Smith was her sister's maid of honor and was gown in a graceful model of gold tulle, featuring a basque waist and a full skirt accented by band of fuchsia velvet. Her heart-shaped hat of matching gold tulle was trimmed with long streamers of fuchsia velvet ribbon and she carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums tied with fuchsia velvet ribbon.

Acting as bridesmaids were Miss Annie Lloyd Liggins, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Clifford Hendrix, the bride's sister. They were fashioned like that of the maid of honor and they carried similar bouquets.

The bride entered with her mother, Alonzo Melvin Smith Jr., by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Henry Franklin Trotter, of Columbia, S. C., who acted as best man.

Fashioned of old ivory slipper satin, the bride's gown featured a high fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline and long sleeves. The full skirt extended into a train and her veil of imported Brussels lace, loaned her by Mrs. Cameron White, was caught to her hair by a coronet of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was an antique gold chain and cross ornamented with pearls, loaned her by Mrs. Howell Dodd. Her bouquet was of gardenias and valley lilies.

Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride, was gown in a model of black velvet with yoke of ecru lace. Her hat was of matching velvet and she wore a corsage of talisman roses and valley lilies.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Liggins left on their wedding trip to North Carolina and Virginia, the bride changing into a traveling costume of soldier blue wool trimmed in black velvet. Her accessories were of soldier blue and a corsage of gardenias and valley lilies completed her costume.

Upon their return from their wedding trip, the young couple will reside at 130 Eleventh street and will be popular additions to the young married contingent.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Franklin Trotter, of Columbia, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams, of Savannah; and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Trenary Jr., of Macon.

Miss Becky Fillingame Weds Mr. Hardee at Church Rites

Miss Becky Fillingame, lovely daughter of Mrs. Mabel Jeanne Fillingame, became the bride of Walter Daniel Hardee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Joseph Hardee, at a ceremony taking place Saturday afternoon at the Peachtree Christian church. Rev. Robert W. Burns officiated and Mrs. Victor Clark, organist, presented the nuptial music.

The altar was banked with palms and ferns before which were placed altar vases holding white lilies. Myriad lighted tapers illuminated the wedding scene.

Capers F. Smith, Dana Kilcrease, Charles A. Moore, Robert W. Frazier and Joel Faver, of St. Augustine, Fla., were the usher-groomsmen.

Miss Emily Matheson was the maid-of-honor and acting as bridesmaids were Miss Jane Coffin, Miss Ann Cox, Miss Sarah Davidson and Mrs. Capers F. Smith. They were attired in gowns of slipper satin, fashioned with shirred bodices and full skirts, the maid of honor's being shell pink and the bridesmaids' turquoise blue.

Miss Matheson carried a cascade bouquet of shell-pink carnations surrounded by white snapdragons and the other attendants carried similar carnations surrounded by bronze snapdragons.

The radiant bride was given in marriage by R. E. Matheson, and Malcolm Truitt, of St. Augustine, Fla., served as best man for the groom. She was attired in an exquisite gown of white slipper satin, the high-waisted, shirred bodice featuring a sweetheart neckline and long leg-o-mutton sleeves that ended in points over the hands. The full skirt extended into a graceful train. Her veil of bridal illusion was worn with a face veil and was held to her head by a cap of Chantilly lace. The veil was loaned for the occasion by Mrs. Fred Kyle, the former Miss Caroline Apperson. The bride's only ornament was a strand of pearls, the gift of the groom, and she carried a beautiful lace handkerchief, 30 years old. Her bouquet was composed of white orchids, swainsona and valley lilies.

An original model of soldier blue crepe, fashioned with a draped bodice of powder blue metal cloth was chosen by the bride's mother to wear on this occasion. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of gardenias. Mrs. Hardee, the groom's mother, was gown in a model of dunnet crepe with which she wore black accessories and a shoulder cluster of gardenias.

Following the ceremony, the young couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the bride traveling in costume suit, an original model, with a powder blue gown and a wide cape of royal blue. Her accessories were in matching shades and a shoulder spray of white orchids completed her attire.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Hardee will make their home in Jacksonville, Fla., where they will be popular additions to the young married set.

Out-of-town guests present at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Rish, Miss Rosalyn Rish, of Rome; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Geesling, of Fort Gaines; Miss Mary Brown, of Edison, and Mr. and Mrs. James Spencer, of Daytona, Florida.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering! It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition. Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this also helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!—(adv.)

"Fur-Bearing" Fashions Form Theme of Milady's Wardrobe

By KATHRYN BARNWELL DUDLEY.

Atlanta socialites are looking chic in the mornings, pretty in the afternoons, and soignée in the evenings.

"Fur-bearing" fashions are the mode, and with this city being one of the fashion centers of the south, it is appropriate that glossy martins, luxurious silver foxes and handsome sables predominate in furs chosen by prominent followers of Dame Fashion.

Furs attracting constant admiration in social circles include the white ermine coat worn by Mrs. Everett Strupper on formal occasions... the silver foxes accenting the costumes of Charlotte Sage, Elizabeth Groves, Mrs. Howard See and Mrs. Robert Hunt; the stone martens worn by Charlotte Chapman and the sables belonging to Mrs. Lowry Arnold. Mrs. Walter Colquitt and Mrs. Logan Clarke.

Sports costumes favored by prominent Atlantans are casual of line, and gay of color. For football games milady selects a costume similar to the stunning winterberry red woolen dress which Mrs. Malon Courts wears with a matching hat.

Another smart outfit was sported by Rannie Geissler when she attended the Rabun Gap Club horse show last weekend, her man-tailored suit of brown and beige Stook woolen having been becomingly worn with a cocoa brown sweater. Sarah Lewis combines two vivid colors in a smart sports costume, this dress featuring a red woolen blouse with a stiff blue skirt. She wears with it a handsome red and gold necklace.

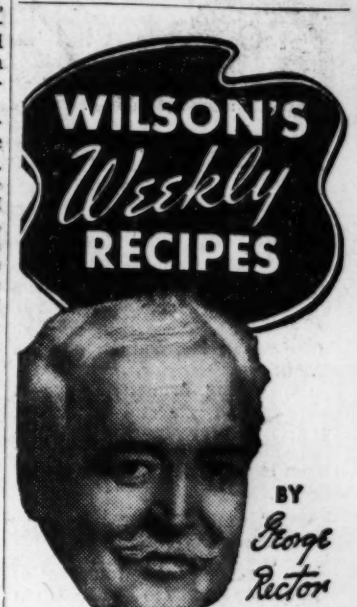

Although gold is still popular as an accent, this season finds milady adopting silver, feather and fur innovations to highlight her costumes. Mrs. Rufus King offsets her golden blonde beauty with a saucy brown hat trimmed with beaver fur, which is matched by a muff of glossy beaver. Mrs. Abner Calhoun selects a becoming mink-trimmed hat, which she wears with a blue-green woolen costume. Mrs. Phillip Swindell has a positively wicked chapeau of black felt topped by brilliant red feather wings.

Sophistication is the keynote for evening, formal attire being highlighted by lots of glitter. Rhinestones, as usual, are good, and earrings, both large and small, are indispensable. Mary Jo Brownlee, vice president of the Debutante Club, will wear a handsome rhinestone necklace and bracelet with her white mink picture gown when she attends Martha Merritt's coming out party on Friday evening at the Driving Club. Other gowns to make their debut at Friday's party, as previewed by your reporter, include the flame colored metal cloth sheath to be worn by pretty Mary Lib Beers. This gown, the last word in sophistication, features a halter neckline and a full swirling skirt. Jean Pentecost has chosen for this occasion a bouffant model of ice blue net, the bodice of which is encrusted with garlands of silver sequins.

Stardust blue chiffon will fashion the severe gown to be worn by fair Jeanette Estes when she attends the first debut party of the season. Supported by a halter, the dress will feature a voluminous skirt billowing from a wide sequin girdle.

Italy's North African colony of Libya is described by a geographer as no more dependable a granary than our Dust Bowl.

There's frost on the pumpkin, there's a sizzle in the skillet, there's a spicy aroma in the air! "It must be, it is Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage," says you.

Folks who know their sausages claim that Wilson's are unforgettably delicious. It is because these sausages are made of just the juiciest, choicest pork, taken at the peak of fresh sweet flavor, plus the savory seasoning—a secret Wilson recipe. I do know this, too: morning, noon and night you can glamorize any meal with Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links.

Make Sunday Breakfast a Gala Feast with SAUSAGE OMELET

Pan fry until brown and slightly crisp, Wilson's Certified Sausage Links, or Wilson's Country Style Sausage, cut in small pieces.

Separate 4 Clear Brook Eggs, beat yolks with ¼ cup milk. Beat whites with ¼ teaspoon salt, until stiff. Fold in yolks; add drained sausages. Put 1 tablespoon of sausage drippings in a skillet and pour in omelet mixture. Cook gently until set. Increase heat to brown, then fold over and serve immediately.

Prepare Early... Serve Late SAUSAGE CROQUETTES

For a quickly prepared dinner in the evening, make these delicious croquettes in the morning. They will need only a couple of minutes' heating in deep fat.

Fry 8 small Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links in a cool skillet until brown and cooked through. To 2 cups of mashed potatoes add 1 teaspoon of chopped chives, 1 tablespoon minced parsley and the beaten yolk of a Clear Brook Egg. Cover each link with the potato mixture and shape into oblong croquette. Roll in bread crumbs, dip in beaten egg diluted with cold water; then again in crumbs.

SAUSAGE-AND-MUSHROOM SUPREME

Saute 1 lb. Wilson's Certified Sausage Links until they are just brown, not cooked through. Arrange in bottom of shallow casserole. Cover with fresh mushrooms, placed cap side up. Sprinkle mushrooms lightly with salt and a dash of paprika. Dot with Clear Brook Butter and pour ½ cup cream or top milk over them. Cover and bake in a hot oven (425° F.) for 10 minutes. Serve on toast and garnish. Serves 4-5.

All in The Game

BY JACK TROY

Problem in Hunting HIGHTOWER GAP, CHATTAHOOCHEE NATIONAL FOREST, Nov. 6.—Twenty chains up the old, narrow logging trail, J. D. Phillips' big buck lay waiting for the final haul to the wilderness camp at Three Forks.

The big 10-pronged buck, in whose veins had run the strain of the mule deer of the state of Washington, had been shot early the day before—high up in the mountains and miles away from the camp in the cove where the turbulent, rushing mountain streams converged.

A hunter is supposed to bring in his kill, but it became obvious at once to J. D. Phillips, of Atlanta, that if it were left up to him to get the buck to camp, he'd never make it.

Deer hunters, however, are good sports. Relays of them worked at totting in the big buck which had been trussed up expertly on a stout limb.

Steady, lashing rain had swelled the tumbling streams and softened the ground along the old logging trail. It had made a quagmire of the rough, twisting road into the camp from Ranger Clyde Wehnt's quarters near Winding Stair gap.

And so finally when our party set out with the wind and the rain in our hair, the big buck was 20 chains, or a quarter of a mile, away up the winding mountain trail.

Through the cold foam-capped mountain stream the party splashed back to camp with the kill and loaded it on a U. S. Forest Service truck, equipped with tire chains. It was then sped to Ranger Wehnt's quarters where hunters parked their cars before beginning the three-and-a-half-mile pack into the wilderness camp.

J. D. Phillips heaved a great sigh of relief when the buck finally was securely fastened to a fender of his car.

"Never again," he said. "I'll confine my hunting hereafter to quail or dove. It's really something to get a deer out of such rough country."

And with a tired wave he headed out of the mountains toward Atlanta with his hard-earned prize.

Many Stories There are many stories. Hugh Davis, of Gainesville, carted his big buck miles and then floated it down the stream as far as he could. Finally it became necessary to quarter the kill in the woods. It was too big to bring in. The hooves of the buck were half as large as cows' hooves.

Bill Holbrook got his buck down to the stream and hung it on a limb for the night. It was brought in today.

The procedure was reversed in the case of Guy Perry, Clint Davis' brother-in-law. They finally brought Perry in last night.

There had been genuine alarm over Perry's absence. He had become separated from J. P. Knight and had been missing since early morning. A searching party was organized. CCC workers were about to be called out.

And while all this feverish activity was taking place in his behalf, Perry was enjoying a warm supper with June Stevens at June's place at Dial, Ga. Told by the rangers to go down stream if he became lost, Perry had gone nine miles down the Noontooty, nine long miles, away from the wilderness camp.

It was a great relief to the campers when Stevens came into camp with Perry in tow. Clint Davis immediately apologized for having such a woodsman as a relative.

Earlier in the week an eventful occasion was kangaroo court, presided over by Mr. Hugh Trotti.

One of the victims was Dan Lane, who lost his shirt as well as his shirt-tail. It never was definitely established what Lane had shot at on his deer stand.

Favors Arrows Head Ranger Arthur Woody, who honestly feels the loss of the deer as something personal, because he raised them, hopes there will not be a firearms hunt next year.

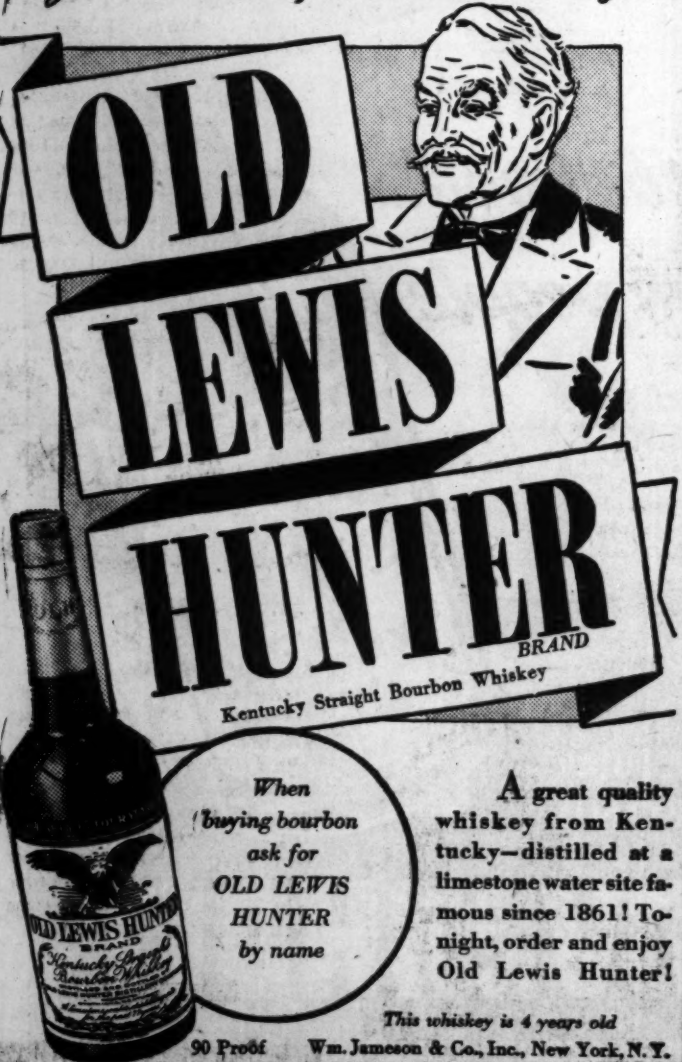

"They ought to call it off. The deer are too big to bring out," he says. He's right. Woody has every reason to be proud of the size of the bucks, which are larger than any to be found in the south.

He says, in jest, that in time they will produce

Tulane Shows Power in Drill For 'Bama Tilt

L. S. U. Loses Aswell Stell for Mississippi State Co.

CLEMSON, S. C., Nov. 6.—Plagued by injuries, Clemson's football squad struggled through another workout today for its engagement with Auburn there Saturday.

Regulars Bob Sharpe, George Floyd, Chippy Maness and Bill Hall and Reserves Timsley and Payne took things easily. Sophomore Fullback Johnny Sweat, tried at wingback because of player shortage, looked promising, and Norwood McElveen, letterman reserve, fought his way to the first-string blocking back assignment.

FLASHY PASSING.

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 6.—(P)—Auburn flashed a classy aerial display there this afternoon in a long scrimmage, with End Jim Lenoir turning in some fine pass-receiving.

With Dick McGowan, Bill Yearout and Clarence Harkins doing the passing, the scrimmage produced plenty of completions to Teedy Faulk and Lenoir.

Coach Jack Meagher also commended the work of Buddy McMahan, second-string quarterback.

GREENIES ROMP.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—(P)—With four regulars out of action because of minor injuries, the Tulane Greenies ran roughshod over freshmen in a stiff offensive scrimmage today.

All of the injured players—Al Bodney, standing end, and Fred Cassibry, Bob Glass and Jimmy Thibaut, backfield stars, are expected to be ready to go against Alabama this weekend.

The Wave will get in a last workout tomorrow before leaving for Birmingham.

'BAMA ON DEFENSE.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 6.—(P)—Frank Thomas stressed a "pass-and-power" defense today as Alabama drilled for the Saturday battle with powerful Tulane.

The Crimson, who have polished their aerial defense intensively since the Tennessee game, also worked hard at ground defense today with Tulane's smashing running-attack in mind.

Russ-Craft took part in rough work for the first time in three weeks today and is expected to play Saturday. The Tiesmen displayed good downfield blocking on two touchdown runs by Paul Spencer, but were inconsistent on offense.

STELL INJURED.

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 6.—(P)—Louisiana State University's Beals resigned himself today to the loss of Aswell Stell, senior first-string end, at least for the Mississippi State game Saturday.

Stell, injured internally in blocking practice yesterday, was resting well in a hospital today. Woodrow Barvelt, another senior, ran in his place today when the squad went through a hard scrimmage.

OLE MISS OFF.

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Nov. 6.—The University of Mississippi football team went through a final heavy practice session today and planned to leave by train tomorrow, 35 strong, for the game with Holy Cross.

"Arkansas and Vanderbilt," said Coach Harry Mehre, "played their best games of the season against us. I hope Holy Cross doesn't follow suit."

The squad will leave Memphis at 9 a. m. tomorrow and arrive in Boston at 6:30 p. m. A light workout is set for Friday before Saturday's game at Worcester, Mass.

ELROD LOOKS GOOD.

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Nov. 6.—Mississippi State's hopes for victory over Louisiana State this weekend soared today as Buddy Elrod showed up well at end.

Elrod has been on the sidelines for 10 days as the result of a hand injury. The workout was brisk and spirited.

VOLUNTEERS TUNE UP.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 6.—Preparing for their visit to Memphis and a meeting with Southwestern college on Saturday, Tennessee's Volunteers today tuned up their defensive and offensive grid tactics.

Although not anticipating much trouble from the Lynxes, the Vols toiled to increase their precision in the execution of plays—especially in the handling of the ball.

After five fumbles were recovered by Louisiana State in last Saturday's game, Major Bob Neyland expressed displeasure at his backfield's ball handling.

Ike Peel and Van Thompson, of Jackson, are expected to start at the blocking and tailback spots, although indications are that the major will be sending every man on the undefeated, untied squad into the fray.

The squad will leave here tomorrow night by train.

OMANSKI IMPRESSIVE.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 6.—Holy Cross continued to devote all its time to offensive maneuvers today as the Crusaders prepared for Saturday's intersectional football game here with Mississippi.

Joe Omanski appeared so impressive in his new role of fullback that Coach Joe Sheeketski today shifted Frank Saba back to his old signal calling berth. These veterans, together with a pair of sophomore halfbacks, Andy Natowich and Kevin Mulcahy, now loom as the starting H. C. backfield.

VANDY TUNES UP.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 6.—Coach Red Sanders, who doesn't intend for Vanderbilt to be caught napping Saturday by Sewanee, tuned up the Commodore attack today with a dummy scrimmage.

It was the third straight skrimish for the Commodores, who will be seeking their first Southeastern Conference win against the Tigers.

LOVE WINNER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(P)—Dolly's Love, a six-year-old gelding owned by Evander B. Schley, captured the featured Battleship steeplechase handicap at Pimlico today by a length and a half over the Rokeby Stable's favored Good Chance. The winner, covering two miles in 3:53 2-5 to earn a purse of $2,375, was a $8-to-$2 shot for the crowd of 8,000.

Five Football Players Dropped by Petrels

Five first-string football players were dropped from Oglethorpe's student body yesterday as the team prepared to leave for Tampa for their game Friday night, The Constitution learned last night.

3 More Bucks Are Brought In

CHATTAHOOCHEE NATIONAL FOREST, Nov. 6.—Three more bucks were killed today by riflemen on the supervised deer hunt in this section of the North Georgia mountains.

Those making kills were J. D. Eubanks, of Atlanta, a nine-pointer, weighing 175 pounds; Thomas A. Cantrell, of Gainesville, a six-pointer, weighing 150 pounds, and Bill Lovell, of Atlanta, a four-pointer, weighing 175 pounds.

This brought the total for the first three days of the rifle hunt to 11 deer. The mountainous terrain and steady rain for a day and a half has reduced the kills. Hunters have been all worn out from tiring efforts of getting their buck back to camp over the mountains where paths are non-existent.

Seventy-five more hunters will arrive Thursday, and with bright weather expected the rest of the week, kills should increase.

MILEY APPEARS.

LAGRANGE, Ga., Nov. 6.—Marian Miley, of Lexington, Ky., several times winner of the Southern Woman's golf championship and of the western, trans-Mississippi and Kentucky state championships, will give an exhibition here tomorrow at the Highland Country Club course.

Black Big Star As 'Cat Eleven Preps for Tech

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 6.—(P)—Billy Black, a halfback with glue on his fingers and a change of pace complex, stole the spotlight today as the Kentucky Wildcats drove through the freshmen in prep for Georgia Tech Saturday at Louisville.

Proving that catching bullet passes is his strong suit, Black managed to get on the receiving end of a majority of stocky Ernie Allen's throws.

With a running average of over six yards per try, the 175-pound Paducah sophomore has been used in increasing doses against Wildcat opponents. The rest of the squad also looked good as they gained consistently against the husky frosh.

Although three men, tackles Ed Jacobs and John Eubank and fullback Bob Herbert remained on the sidelines during scrimmage, there were no absentees and the Cats were pronounced "in fairly good shape" by Coach Ab Kirwan.

Mercer Bears And Choctaws Play Saturday

Old graduates and visitors are expected to mingle with present-day students and professors on the Mercer campus this week-end as the century-old Baptist institution celebrates home-coming with a series of activities, climaxed by the Mercer-Mississippi College football game in the Centennial stadium at 2:30 Saturday afternoon.

The football game—the best on the Bears' schedule—is expected to be seen by a host of middle and south Georgia school children as well as old grads and visiting adults.

School children from the grades through college will be admitted to the game on 20-cent tickets provided those tickets are purchased in the Mercer gymnasium before 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

A series of activities have been planned which include parades and floats, dances, fraternity and sorority functions and dinners for prominent guests and alumni.

WARMS UP FOR CRIMSON TIDE—Bob Glass, husky Tulane halfback, opens his mouth wide and he straight-arms an imaginary foe in preparation for the Alabama game Saturday in Birmingham. This struggle between two giant teams, both are thundering along in high gear, appears to be one of the day's major games Saturday.

Marist, Jordan Battle Tonight At Columbus

Rome Given No Chance Against Boys' High Tomorrow Night.

By FELTON GORDON
COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 6.—(P)

With the G. I. A. A. championship already clinched by Boys' High unless a near-miracle occurs, G. I. A. A. football teams turn their attention this week-end to settling the runner-up issue. Boys' High kept their unbeaten, untied, and unscored-upon record intact by trimming Tech High, 12-0, last week-end to apparently clinch the title for the second straight season.

The Purple Hurricane takes up some unfinished business in the game with Rome High this week. The Hilltop team is not given a chance since it has won only two games, while losing four this season against teams less formidable than Boys' foes.

As a result of the bombshell which was set off when the G. I. A. A. executive committee forfeited all games won by Marist and one by Jordan over the week-end the standings underwent a juggling.

Benedictine, Jordan and Richmond now are in a 3-way fight for second place honors.

NINE GAMES
Three conference games are on deck this week with Benedictine clashing with Richmond at Savannah Friday in the battle of the week.

The Musketeers are coming strong and loom as potential threats. Coach Wendell Sullivan's crew bowed to Columbia, S. C., high last week-end in a non-loop tilt. They hope to take the Cadets into camp in order to strengthen their second place bid.

Benedictine and Rome High are the only loop teams undefeated after tests within the circuit. The B. C. aggregation has trimmed Riverside and Lanier. Rome High was humbled by Marist, but the game was switched to the Hilltop side due to a ruling that Marist used ineligible players.

In other struggles Marist and Jordan collide at Columbus Thursday and Riverside at Monroe to take on the Aggies.

JORDAN FAVORED
Jordan High's Red Jackets are favored over the Marist College team, which has lost men due to ineligibility. The Columbus team has the same team that has seen service in the last few games.

Compton, the ineligible player having been on the bench since the first contest. The Marist "ineligibles" are not first-stringers.

Other encounters this week include M. A. vs. Morgan at Atlanta; Savannah at Gaffney, S. C.; Columbus High vs. Central High (Phenix City, Ala.), all scheduled for Friday.

Louis To Fight McCoy, Dec. 16, In Boston Go

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(P)—Joe Louis will defend his world's heavyweight championship against Al McCoy, New England and Canadian titleholder, at the Boston Garden December 16, it was announced today by Promoter Mike Jacobs. Jacobs will release Louis from his contract for this 15-round bout, which will be promoted by Rip Valenti.

Middleweight Champion Ken Overlin, of Washington, D. C., and young Steve Belloise, of New York, were matched today for a 15-round return title bout at Madison Square Garden Friday, December 13. Overlin won a close decision last Friday after being knocked down in the sixth round.

offspring which will arrive with horns already showing. That's how robust the Chattahoochee deer are.

Woody is in favor of opening the national forest every year only to the bow and "arrar" hunters. He doesn't think they should be made to pay for the privilege. And Woody has a standing offer that he'll eat the nose of any deer killed with bow and "arrar."

"Those fellers wouldn't any more than tickle them big bucks," says Woody.

It is regrettable, indeed, that the hunt has brought about the death of two does. The offending hunters were escorted to the edge of the forest, where their permits were revoked, they were fined $25 each and hastened on their way.

There's not much excuse for killing a doe. A fellow who is as quick on the trigger as that might shoot a fellow man by mistake.

Mountain Mecca Mr. John Martin and I, spending a goodly part of the time at the quarters of State Wildlife Director Charles Elliott, have never before experienced such a variety of food as has been prepared.

We have had roast venison from the state of Washington, mallard duck liver from Canada, barbecued venison, mountain trout, hot biscuits, string beans, slaw, grits, potatoes, sorghum syrup, hot coffee, etc.

It's all native stuff we've had. Mr. Martin shot the duck and the venison was supplied by huntsmen friends. Anybody can catch fish. The vegetables came from the farms. Not out of cans.

Each night Mr. Martin and I have found it necessary to walk the three and a half miles into the Wilderness camp—and back—for the sheer need of exercise after such a steady diet of colossal comestibles.

Game has been on the prowl at night, and it has been a thrill to pack through the wilderness unarmed and shine the eyes of nondescript animals with the strong flashlight. This is known as roughing it.

Georgia Players and Coach Spark Unbeaten Baylor Team

Mid-South Title Nears as Griffin, Albany, Macon, Athens, Marietta, Valdosta Boys Romp Under Athens Coach.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 6.—Six Georgia boys, playing on the Baylor football team, are largely responsible for the fine showing Baylor is making in her bid for the Mid-South Conference championship. To date Baylor has won seven and lost none, running up 131 points to her opponents' 20.

Georgia boys on the first string at Baylor are:

Fred Melton, 175-pound center, who came to Baylor after playing two years at Griffin High.

Charles E. Jones, Albany, 170-pound back, who played with Albany High last year.

Henry Blue Barnes, 180-pound guard, who hails from Macon.

Mose Bill Gordon, Athens, 150-pound fullback.

Bill Healy, Marietta, 180-pound tackle, who is co-captain of the team. Healey is a junior and one of the outstanding tackles in the conference.

Banks Saunders, Valdosta, 165-pound fullback, who is one of the most consistent ground gainers on the team.

To date Baylor has defeated such teams as Georgia Military Academy, Tennessee Military Institute, Castle Heights Military Academy, Porter Military Academy, Central High of Memphis and City High of Chattanooga.

G. M. A. is unbeaten except for the 13-7 loss to Baylor.

Humpey Heywood, Athens, Georgia, product, who played football at the University of Chattanooga and made All-Southern, is coach of the Baylor team.

Rival Coaches To Call Signals Saturday in Oklahoma Battle

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 6.—(P)—Coach Ossie Doenges is about to go down in gridiron annals as the originator of 12-man—there's the catch in the huddle—football.

Yessir, come Saturday at San Antonio, Texas, Coach Ossie, of the Oklahoma City University Goldbugs, and Coach Mose Simms, of St. Mary's colorful Rattlers, will hop from the bench and call signals.

You might know Old Mose would be in for something like that. Mose would rather get some honest free advertising for his football team than win a game—well, almost—any day.

"Sure, we'll do it," bellowed Mose from the other end of the telephone, "it sounds like a swell stunt."

Doenges will admit that all this rumormongering about coaches wiggling signals from the bench gave him the idea. But after all, when 11 men can't win a game all season, why maybe an extra might help.

Earlier this season, Doenges said he had a perfectly good football team—the Goldbugs had only lost two or three games at the time—but they always called the right plays at the wrong time.

Still, the rules were pretty strict about the coaches getting off the bench. But why wouldn't it be all right to get the other coach to agree?

"We'll step into the huddle, step back out after the boys get the signal, and we won't be eligible for passes, or even fumbles," Ossie explained.

St. Mary's has won six games so far and a scoreless tie would look like a thumping victory to Ossie.

Williamson Picks 'Cats Over Tech; Likes Georgia

By PAUL B. WILLIAMSON.

Championships will be decided this weekend in some of the national football circuits.

The three most important such games will be Michigan vs. Minnesota, Texas Aggies vs. Southern Methodist, and Stanford vs. Washington. Picking the winner in just one of those games would be chore enough for a week. But, they're all playing. So, the Williamson system picks Michigan to take Minnesota and thereby clinch the Big Ten title. Both are undefeated and untied, and are rated mighty close together: Michigan at 97.6 and Minnesota at 97.0.

And we'll take Texas Aggies over the Mustangs of S. M. U. The Aggies have come up to this big test undefeated and untied—adding to the laurels gained as the Williamson national champions of 1939. The Mustangs are undefeated, and tied only by Pittsburgh. This is the crucial game for the Southwest Conference title. If the Aggies are going to fall this season, here's where they'd better watch carefully.

The undefeated and untied Indians of Stanford are the Williamson favorite to defeat the Washington Huskies, beaten only by Minnesota's powerful Gophers this season. It'll be a mighty close game.

Some other big games that will be close are: Columbia over Wisconsin; Fordham over Purdue; Michigan State over Indiana, probably against most forecasts; Kentucky over Georgia Tech, also being different; Marquette over Manhattan; Oregon over U. C. L. A.; Wake Forest over North Carolina State; undefeated and untied Penn State over Syracuse, another hurdle for State; Temple over Villanova, in a tough local game; Western Reserve over Ohio U., and St. Mary of California over Duquesne.

Other big games will be: Creighton over St. Louis U.; Alabama over Tulane, by about a touchdown; Auburn over Clemson, close; Mississippi over Holy Cross; Mississippi State over L. S. U.; Nebraska over Iowa; Northwestern over Illinois; South Carolina over Kansas State; Southern California over California, and Georgia over Florida.

The system is taking V. P. I. over Furman, despite Furman's surprising 20-0 upset of North Carolina State last week.

Again, this week, the system is picking a so-called "minor" team over a major. It's Franklin-Marshall, conquerors of Dartmouth, over N. Y. U.

Star Tailback Hobbles Badly On Hurt Ankle

Pass Defense Weak in Drill; Goodman May Start at Guard.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 6.—Georgia sharpened up its aerial weapons today as it became more and more evident that the Bulldogs will have to face Florida, which boasts of the greatest lines in the south, without the services of their number one running back.

Frankie Sinkwich, the ace of the Bulldog ball carriers, was on the field during the light drill, but he was still hobbling badly from a pulled ankle tendon suffered in the Auburn game, and observers held little hopes of his being ready.

He did not take part in the workout at all, merely watching his mates go through their running and passing plays so that he will know what to do if he should be able to face the Floridians.

HEALING SLOWLY.

Trainer Fitz Lutz said he had been well pleased with the progress Sinkwich's ankle had made up until this morning, but from now on time is the only medicine that will heal the wound. With Sinkwich out tailback duties will be left up to Heyward Allen and Jim Todd, both good passers but neither great runners.

Coach Wallace Butts was far from satisfied with the way his charges performed during the afternoon, and said that unless the Bulldogs snap out of it they're in for a beating Saturday.

Working against a Red Devil eleven that had instructions not to tackle but to break up passes when they could, the varsity racked up a very low percentage of completions. One throw was too far, the next too short, but occasionally there was a perfectly executed play.

INTERCEPT FOUR.

At one time during the workout a Red Devil back intercepted four straight heaves and batted down a fifth.

Andy Dudish, hard working wingback who has been out more than a week with a hip bruise, appeared ready to go today, although he drilled only in sweat clothes.

Andy was running at full speed and apparently is completely over his injury. If he is in good shape he will start against the 'Gators, for it's definite that Lamar Davis and Brooker Blanton will not be in tip-top condition.

Davis has a charley horse suffered in the Auburn game, and is limping badly. Blanton has not recovered from a sprained knee.

GOODMAN MAY START.

There is likely to be one man in the Bulldogs' starting lineup who hasn't answered the opening whistle this season.

He is Winfred Goodman, the third right guard to be shoved into a starting berth since the first game. Goodman will replace Everett Horne, who succeeded C. B. Gulett two weeks ago as a starter at that post.

Winfred is a native of Atlanta and is a junior letterman.

'Gators Stress

Defensive Play.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Defensive scrimmage and a long passing drill marked the preparations of the Florida 'Gators today for their Saturday game with the Georgia eleven at Jacksonville.

Coach Tom Lieb used a jumbled lineup that included only a few regulars in the scrimmage. It was composed of Carl Mitchell and John Plombo, ends; Nick Kluta and Frank Delahoyde, tackles; Bob Sauers and Leroy Godwin, guards; Harry Parham, center; Bill Latsko, quarterback; Fonden Mitchell and Pat Reen, halfbacks, and Charlie Tate, fullback.

Most of the squad's injuries have disappeared during the lay-off since the Tennessee game, although a few players still nursed minor bruises.

Walthour League To Meet Tonight

The Walthour Boys' Basketball league will hold an important business meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight at 41 Pryor street. Managers and representatives of Decatur, Columbia Seminary, Police Department, Central Cafe, Great Southern, Georgia Evening College, Georgia Power, Dixie Steel, Sears & Roebuck and Atlanta Dental College, together with representatives of any strong team within a radius of thirty miles of the city are invited to attend. The league has secured the use of the huge Fulton High school court for all league games, thus insuring the league entrants of the best available playing conditions. Further information may be had by calling Dusty Speer at Main 7137.

Mosley Park Gridders

Stars at Thomaston

THOMASTON, Ga., Nov. 6.—The Mosley Park 100-pound football team from Atlanta will play a local team made up of 28 boys from Thomaston, East Thomaston and Shertown here Friday night, starting at 6:30 o'clock.

The local lads are working hard and will try their best to give the unscoured Atlantans a real battle.

Soph Will Burt Wins His Spurs As Guard and Game Warrior

Former Lanier Star Lauded by Rival Coaches; Recently Continued To Play With His Nose Broken.

By TOM MCRAE.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 6.—One of the reasons the guard problem of the Bulldogs has cleared up some is the showing of Will Burt, 200-pound former Lanier High star.

The big black-haired, black-eyed Macon boy came to the university with the reputation of being one of the best prep ends in the south; in fact, one former All-America end described him as "the best defensive end I ever saw on a high school team."

The Georgia coaches felt Burt would do better at guard and he was moved there last fall. Will took the switch philosophically. "At least I won't be blamed every time some guy comes around end for a big gain," Burt said, grinning. Of course, was referring to the fact that an end sometimes does everything he is supposed to do correctly and thoroughly, some fault of the backer-up or the sidekick a big gain is made.

Burt was the only player the Bulldogs were able to hold out last season. He had shown improvement in the spring and this fall he continued to progress.

He played a good bit in the early games and in the Columbia game his showing was such that he received the praise of the New York reporters.

Many prominent coaches attended the Kentucky game and not a few of them thought Will Burt was the best lineman on the field that night.

Last Saturday against Auburn Coach Jack Meagher picked Will Burt out as one of the Georgia linemen whose play he regarded as superior.

This Saturday against Florida the Bulldogs perhaps will be opposed by the best guard they have faced this season in the person of Veteran Mush Battista, whose name is mentioned in the same category with Safford, Molinski, Cavette and Goree. If Will Burt continues to improve and show the spirit he has of late he may join that select group.

An incident happened at practice sometime ago that makes some of the Georgia supporters think he has a chance to make the grade.

The going was pretty tough and after one play Will Burt came up with his nose bleeding. His nose felt out of place. "My nose is broken," he exclaimed more to himself than anyone else.

He wiped his nose across his arm and lined up for the next play. Line Coach Whitworth stopped the play and sent Burt to Trainer Lutz to do whatever is done for broken noses.

Intersectional Tilts Feature N.G.F.A. Card

Russell-Gainesville and Fulton-Spalding Are Among Contests.

By ALVA L. HAYWOOD.

GREENSBORO, Ga., Nov. 6.—Preparing for the "home stretch" games of the season, the teams of the North Georgia Football Association this week are engaging in a bunch of fine intersectional tilts. Examples of these are the Russell High-Gainesville battle, the Fulton High-Spalding High brawl, and the North Fulton High-Robert E. Lee Institute tilt, in the upper bracket, and the Dallas-Trion, Summerville-Toccoa, and Rome "B"-Rockmart struggles in the lower bracket.

Attracting a large crowd will be the invasion of Cedartown by the Bremen team, which will make a strong attempt to break the winning streak of the Cedartown boys. Cedartown boasts one of the best teams in North Georgia and, due to the fact that they haven't suffered a defeat this season, are leading the upper bracket of the N. G. F. A., and have practically clinched one of the positions in the play-off for the upper bracket championship.

A powerful Hapeville eleven, of the lower bracket, will invade Griffin, of the upper bracket, to settle intrabacket superiority.

STAR STRUCK

By SYLVIA TAYLOR

Mark Sends Flowers For Glory's Birthday and Takes Her to Lunch

SYNOPSIS. Tearing off her wedding gown, Glory Stevens declares she can't marry Arthur Landis—that she is going to Hollywood. She likes Arthur but since she was a little girl she has wanted to be an actress like her mother, who died when Glory was 12. She avoids her father and just catches a Chicago-Los Angeles train on which she meets Helen Jamison, who after a hard struggle, has won some recognition as a character actress. Helen advises Glory to return home, but somehow is impressed by the 18-year-old girl's determination and, calling herself a fool, suggests that Glory take a kitchenette apartment next to hers. Glory makes the rounds daily. When her money is gone, Helen sends her to Scottie Weston, her own agent, after telling him to discourage the girl and send her home. To Helen's surprise, he gets Glory a job in the Sunset studio wardrobe department but the first day a pin in a jacket sleeve scratches Mona Greer and that temperamental star has Glory discharged. Scottie sends her to dramatic school and she is always seen with him at the important night spots, wearing gowns provided by William Van Liningham, Sunset's chief designer. After Mark Spencer, Scottie's handsome young lawyer, meets Glory he is with her constantly. Allan Rhodes, popular screen lover, plays with her in her screen test and they fall in love, although Scottie has warned her against "that guy." She gets small parts in two pictures and moves to a better apartment. Allan leaves Hollywood on business, he says—and Glory is worried because she doesn't hear from him. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

INSTALLMENT XVI. "Miss Helen told me this morning," Tillie informed her, "so I fixed a special breakfast with French toast and bacon. You got to eat more, Miss Glory. You're getting awful thin."

"Don't worry about me," Glory said. "I feel fine this morning." It was true. The melancholy of the night before had completely disappeared. She felt fresh after the long hours of sleep and her mood was as sunny as the morning. Even the thought of Allan did not upset her. There must be some logical explanation for his actions. She had decided to trust him no matter what happened, and her resolution made her happy. Even if Allan hadn't telephoned before she felt sure he would not forget her birthday.

There was a letter from her father enclosing a check. Dear daddy! Glory felt at peace with the world as she finished her coffee. A moment later Tillie appeared carrying a florist's box.

Allan! Glory had known he wouldn't forget, but when she folded back the green paper to the fragrance of long-stemmed red roses she found a white card bearing Mark Spencer's name! Glory was amazed. She hadn't heard from him since their quarrel, and after seeing him last night with Honey Newton she hadn't expected to. But it was nice of Mark to remember her birthday, and the sight of the roses in the bowl where Tillie had arranged them pleased her. She was surprised even more when the phone rang to hear Mark's voice asking her to lunch.

Glory agreed. She dressed in the new black suit Van had made, wearing a delicate white chiffon blouse flaring at throat and wrists. A jeweled clip flashed from the lapel of her jacket. It was more conservative than most of her clothes but she felt that Mark would prefer it. And she looked forward to their engagement. She did not want to quarrel with Mark and she was curious to know if he would mention Honey Newton.

But Mark did not mention Honey. As he faced Glory across the luncheon table, he said, "I owe you an apology, Glory. I'm awfully sorry the way I banged out of your apartment the other night."

Glory was disappointed. She had expected him to apologize for his remarks! But evidently this was not to be the case. "I meant everything I said," he continued, "but after all I had no right to burst in on you like that, and I didn't mean to be rude." It was a weak apology but Glory accepted it. "You're one of my best friends," she told him. "It's silly for us to let anything come between us."

"Right," Mark agreed. "Is all forgiven?" "Yes," she replied, smiling. As if by mutual agreement, Allan Rhodes was not mentioned. And as usual Glory had a delightful time with Mark. Listening to his quiet voice soothed her nerves. Of course it wasn't thrilling like being with Allan, but she could relax with Mark and when he took her home she thanked him.

"We must see each other often," Mark suggested. "We will," Glory promised. She was ashamed now for her suspicions about Mark and Honey.

She had hoped to have some word from Allan, but Tillie said that no one called but "Mr. Scottie," who was taking her out to dinner. Helen was working and probably wouldn't be home until late. So Glory changed her suit for a velvet housecoat and curled up with the evening paper. It was wonderful to have nothing to do. Wonderful to be able to sit here and relax! She hadn't realized before how much privacy could mean. Every moment alone was precious. It was the first chance she had had to really read a paper in weeks.

Turning to the movie page, she began to read the gossip column. "One of our well-known leading men seems to have pulled a fast one on a certain little starlet! She's biting her fingernails these days over his disappearance but doesn't she suspect where he is—and why?"

It was referring to her—and Allan! The color drained from Glory's face as she read the words a second time. Suddenly her happiness faded. An ice-cold chill swept over her heart. What did they mean "pulled a fast one"? Could it be true that Allan had deserted her?

The telephone rang, then again, but Glory sat staring blankly into space. What did it matter now? What did anything matter if she had lost him?

It was Tillie who bustled into the living room and answered the telephone. She turned to Glory, her face beaming. "It's for you, Miss Glory—it's long distance." Glory snatched the telephone from Tillie but her hand was shaking so that she could scarcely hold it.

"Hello? ... Hello? ... Allan's voice was saying. "Can you hear me, Glory?"

Relief flooded Glory's heart at the sound of that magnetic voice. "Oh, Allan, where are you?"

"On my way home, Sweet! Everything's all right."

"I've been so worried," she confessed. "Did you think I'd forget your birthday?" Allan asked reproachfully.

Glory smiled through her tears but she could not speak. "I'm bringing you a present," Allan continued gayly. "And I'll be in Hollywood tomorrow night!"

Not a word explaining why he had not telephoned before. But he was coming back. "Glory, can you hear me? What's the matter?" "Nothing, darling! Nothing."

"I've got so many things to tell you tomorrow," Allan said tenderly. "Do you love me?" "You know it, Allan."

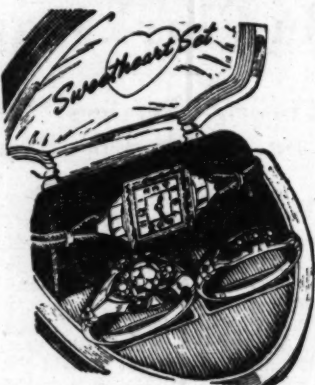

"Then good-bye, sweet, until tomorrow!"

Continued Tomorrow.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—Do not try to overdo your strength today. Watch your health. Many of the difficulties encountered today may be caused through forgetfulness, nerves and high tension. An excellent day to stick to routine.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—The influences prevailing today do not favor entering into anything that is indefinite, or that is not thoroughly understood, for too much action or to quick action on your part may easily bring losses. A good day to be cautious.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—The combined influences today supply inspiration that is favorable for financial interests, making personal decisions as well as general business activities. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 2 p. m.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—The entire day through 7:45 p. m. should result most satisfactorily in any line of endeavor. After 7:45 p. m. favors ordinary business matters, but suggests caution in making sudden changes and unpremeditated moves.

'Mystery' Man Wins Election, Asks Recount

Massachusetts 'Unknown' Dissatisfied With Majority.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—(UP)—Thomas J. Buckley, "mystery candidate" for state auditor, won the election by about 45,000 votes, but decided tonight to ask for a recount.

One of the few Democrats to survive a Republican sweep in Massachusetts, Buckley was christened "The Great Unknown" after winning the nomination in the September primaries. None of the state Democratic leaders knew him and it was 24 hours before he could be found on Cape Cod, where he was vacationing.

Buckley, a former WPA clerk, conducted no campaign in September and was unnoticed until returns showed he was nominated overwhelmingly.

When he learned of his election today, Buckley remarked, "They said when I was nominated I rode in on the name of Tom Buckley, of Abington, (a former state auditor). Now I think some of my votes went to Arthur A. Buckley, the Communist candidate. So I want a recount."

Paul Fratellini, Famous Clown, Dies in Paris

Wife Ordered To Accept Gifts Of Husband

She Loses Cross-Suit Asking $30 a Month for Self and Baby.

A man who asked Fulton superior court to force his wife to accept money from him was granted that privilege yesterday by Judge Virlyn B. Moore in domestic relations court.

James D. Harris named his wife, Billie Louise Harris, as defendant in a suit to require her to accept money from him for the support of their baby daughter, Sandra. His wife would not take cash nor would she accept food he sent the baby, he declared.

On the other hand, she asserted in a cross suit, he had not offered to give her much and she declared she had accepted food he sent as soon as she knew it was paid. Besides that, her suit set out, she wanted $30 a month for the support of herself and child.

She and Baby Sandra and Harris told their troubles to Judge Moore yesterday in person and the ordered that Harris pay her $4 a week and be allowed to see the baby two days a week.

Little Sandra set up a high-keyed bawl while the judge and her parents were straightening things out and for a time would not be quiet.

"Here, you take this baby and get it quiet," said Judge Moore to Carl D. Levy, attorney for the father. While the mother and dad and the baby's two grandmothers watched, Levy strode about the courtroom with Sandra cuddled in his arms.

Glover Case Moves Ahead In U.S. Court

Creditors Who Built
Houses Near Prison
Camps Testify.

Creditors of the state highway department moved through United States district courtroom yesterday as the government continued its prosecution of J. G. (Bugs) Glover, former chief of state convict forces, now on trial in charge of building three state-financed houses on his own property.

The indictment against Glover states the houses were constructed on land owned by the defendant adjoining state prison camps in Dawson, Dade and Miller counties. Built for the use of camp wardens, the government contends they are unnecessarily expensive and elaborate.

Activity in Dade
A good part of the day's testimony dealt with the highway department's activity in the Lost County of Dade, a county cut off from the rest of the state by Lookout Mountain. Until recently, when the department cut a road over the mountain it was possible to enter the county only from Alabama and Tennessee.

Testimony brought out that roads are now being built to and through the county, including one almost to the door of the Lookout Mountain hotel, whose directing board is partly composed of behind-the-scenes Georgia political figures.

"Aren't you trying your best to rush this work through before a change of administration?" United States Attorney Camp asked Divisional Engineer Morris.

Camp later explained that he was not attempting to "sneak anybody, but trying to bring out that state prison camps were permanent propositions that moved from one part of the state to the other as the highway department program demanded.

Creditors who worked on the Glover houses and are yet to be paid for their services are C. L. Goforth of Gainesville, who billed the state for $68.48 worth of electrical work on the Dawson county house, and G. M. York of Rising Fawn, who billed for drilling a 106-foot well near the Dade county house is still unpaid. Bill for the well was $132.50.

Plumber Testifies
Another witness, J. R. Doster of Gainesville, stated he was paid $202 for laying sewage pipes and installing plumbing fixtures and a hot water heater in the Dawson county house, but payment was "slow."

United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp established during the morning that a bill for dressing lumber for the Dawson county place had been changed after it was submitted to make it appear that rough undressed lumber had been sold. The indictment points out that warden's houses are usually built of rough, undressed wood, while the three homes built by Glover were of finished materials.

Further evidence of unusual dealing was brought out in the testimony of C. L. Moore of Lookout Mountain, Dade county. Moore's wife sold Glover four or five acres of land on the mountain as the site of one of the houses.

Deed for the land which was drawn up by J. M. C. Townsend, formerly attorney for the highway department, showed the purchase price to be $450. Moore, under examination, said that Glover agreed to pay him $200 for the land, but all he had ever received was $50.

Agreement Charged
Glover however, agreed to let him tap the electric and water systems, which he had installed at the warden's house. It was Moore's plan, he said, to build a filling station on land he still owned bounding that sold Glover, using Glover's light and water free.

Other witnesses called during the day were V. L. Webb, warden of the Dade county camp, Dewey Blalock, carpenter who worked on the Dawson county house, M. P. Morris, state highway divisional engineer with headquarters in Rome, and W. T. Lipscomb, cost clerk of the Dawson county camp.

Blalock told the court the Dawson camp warden's house was "the nicest little house he had ever seen in the mountains."

Morris identified the map that showed Glover had deeded the land on which the Dade county house stood to the highway department after the investigation of his activities began, retaining title to land surrounding the plot for himself.
